Our City Comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Sewer Plan Wins Friends and Support in Los Angeles

THE Glendale city council yesterday was in consultation with Los Angeles city authorities over the proposed sewer connection.

The meeting was extremely gratifying to Glendale. In fact, it looks as if the meeting had cleared away all obstacles which were liable to obstruct the issue.

Those attending the meeting for Los Angeles were Chas. H. Treat, president of the board of public works; Major John A. Griffin, Los Angeles city engineer, and an assistant Los Angeles city attorney. Glendale was represented by members of the city council.

* * *

THE next step to be taken will be on May 21, when the proposition is to be presented to the Los Angeles city council for final action. While everything tends towards a successful termination of the project, it is not a settled matter yet. We again urge all citizens who have any influence with members of the Los Angeles council to use their utmost endeavors to convince them of the justice of our request. With a sewer assured, large interests will be favorably inclined towards investing in our city—the lack of a sewer, without doubt, has lost us many improvements.

RELIEF MODEL OF GLENDALE TO BE AT EXPOSITION

J. T. Edwards to Exhibit the City in Miniature As It Really Is Probably the most striking single feature of the Glendale Industrial Exposition will be the huge relief model, 13 by 18 feet, of the city of Glendale, now rapidly approaching completion in the studio of Dr. J. T. Edwards at 1213 North Brand. The city is shown in miniature, all physical features being portrayed as well as complete topographical data, with many electrically illuminated public and other buildings. The whole built-up residential section is graphically and most artistically represented, the whole making a feature exhibit of striking originality and of unusual publicity value.

J. T. Edwards is the founder and probably sole constructor of these city models and the one he made of the city of New York was the central feature of the New York city exhibit at the P. P. I. E. in San Francisco in 1915, and carried off the gold medal. Mr. Edwards had no less than sixty models in the 1915 exposition, which is something of a record.

Mr. Edwards has in the course of 25 years of geographical and city model making executed commissions for many governments, states, cities, railways, steamship companies as well as for smaller private corporations, realtors and architects, and this model of Glendale for the Merchants' Industrial Exposition, to be presented afterwards to the Chamber of Commerce, should cause unusual interest.

GLENDALE CAT CLUB STAGES FOOD SALE

Fanciers to Display Dainty Products of Their Kitchens

Members of the Glendale Cat Club are having a food sale at Gregg's Hardware Store on Saturday, but no cat meat will be served. Instead all the dainties of the season in the way of pies, cakes, salads, etc., will be on sale and the proceeds will be used for the purchase of the most up-to-date exhibition cages for the winter show, which is to be larger and more important than ever before. Officers of this organization of which Dr. Libby Ashcroft is president, state that they have the fastest growing cat club in the United States and are beginning to attract the attention of fanciers all over the country.

MUSIC CLUB BANQUET IS SCHEDULED

To Be Held on the Fifth Friday of June to Avoid Conflict in Dates

WILL START DRIVE

Plan to Make Organization Big Unit Here With More Members

By CORINNE ORFF

At the meeting of the executive board of the Glendale Music club, of which Mrs. Mattison B. Jones is president, it was voted to change the time of the annual banquet to the fifth Friday in June on account of conflicting with the White Shrine, to which a number of the officers and members of the club belong. The banquet program will consist of a speaker and special music, which will be announced later.

Plans for a membership drive were also discussed. It was decided that each member of the executive board would be a standing committee chairman of a membership committee, each to secure four other members to work with her. The club is especially anxious for all of the present members to re-enroll, either at the present rate of dues at $4 a year or by becoming patrons or patronesses of the club at $10 each, which allows for two membership tickets. New members will be taken into the club at $5 a year, without initiation fees. When it is realized that single admissions of $1 would be charged for any of the programs to be given, the board is confident that the entire seating capacity of the Tuesday Afternoon club auditorium will be sold out by memberships.

The securing of a large number of memberships before the annual meeting in June will enable the officers of the club to book some of the best of eastern, as well as Californian artists to be presented in programs during the coming club year.

The matter of the scholarship fund was also discussed. It was voted that the executive board members will be the trustees of the scholarship fund and will investigate students recommended for benefit and will have the decision and disposal of the funds.

The first concert to be given for the benefit of the scholarship fund will take place at the Tuesday Afternoon club auditorium the evening of May 24 at 8 o'clock. Among the artists who are donating their services for the program are Charles Wakefield Cadman, chairman of the junior work in the State Federation of Music clubs; Margaret Messer Morris and Carl Gantvoort, famous American opera baritone. Student tickets will be 50 cents each and may be secured at the high school or intermediate schools. The adult tickets will be 75 cents and $1 each, and may be secured at the local music stores, the chamber of commerce and other places which will be announced later.

By means of the scholarship fund promising artists, who otherwise would be unable to do so, will be able to continue their musical training. If at any time they are able to refund any or all of the fund allowed them they may do so, although they will not be under any obligation to do so if not able.

A meeting of the active members of the club will be held at the music room of the high school Friday night, May 18, at 8 o'clock, when the annual election of officers will take place, as well as other important business. All active members are urged to be present.

THIEF STEALS GOLD WATCH FROM GOETZ

A gold watch was stolen from the room of Fred Goetz, at 129 West Windsor, Monday night. Up to this time nothing has been heard of the whereabouts of the missing timepiece.

FIRPO-WILLARD BOUT IS SIGNED

To Box for Tex Rickard in New York by July 7

[By Associated Press]

NEW YORK, May 15.—Luis Firpo, of the Argentine, and Jess Willard, former world's heavyweight champion, signed articles today to box for Tex Rickard in a match to be held in the vicinity of New York not later than July 7. The winner of this contest will be matched with the winner of the Dempsey-Gibbons fight of July 4 for the world title.

ADVENTISTS HOLD PICNIC ON NEW SCHOOL GROUND

Three Hundred Assemble and Hear of the Work That Has Been Done

By W. L. TAYLOR

More than three hundred Adventists and friends enjoyed a delightful picnic upon the site of the new Seventh Day Adventist church school, 2 miles east of the city hall on Sycamore Canyon road, last Sunday. The picnic was given as a "get acquainted affair," and hundreds of members of the church and others viewed for the first time one of the finest locations for a school in Southern California.

The program consisted of numerous games and a fine lunch, which was spread under the big oaks that will form the children's playground in the rear of the school building. After the picnic lunch had been served a short program was given, which was mainly to enlighten the people upon the good fortune of the school in securing such a magnificent site without the outlay of one cent by the school or church in its purchase.

Elder Adams, president of the conference, told the story of the plans of the school, and said that the church was very fortunate in securing such a fine location for its school. The thirty-two acre tract of land had been purchased by several members of the church, among whom were Mr. Eggers, Mr. Kimlin and others who backed the movement.

President Lucas in speaking of the new school proposition, said:

"It is evident to all that to meet the demands it is necessary to enlarge. Twenty-two are graduating from the grades this year, who will wish to continue their work in the academy. The closing of the San Fernando Academy, and the erection of the larger sanitarium will doubtless increase the number who will ask for admission to our academy another year.

"The lot lying between the two buildings is the property of a private individual. It is not for sale, and permission to use it might be withdrawn at any time. So enlargement in the present location seems impossible.

"When this problem was weighing heavily on the minds of the members of the borad, there was providentially brought to their attention a tract of 32 acres of land in the edge of the city of Glendale which could be bought for $42,000. A sufficient amount of it could be platted and sold in building lots to pay for the whole tract and leave about 15 acres for the school. The 15 acres is surrounded on three sides by hills, and the buildings can be placed at the entrance of the 'glen,' thus giving isolated playgrounds for the pupils. What more appropriate place could be found for the 'Glendale Academy?' With the approval of the church, this property was secured, and now comes the task of moving the school.

The church was assured that the school site of 15 acres would be left to the school free of cost. It is now probable that there will be several thousand dollars surplus (though in the form of deferred payments on lots), which surplus will be turned into the fund for the expense of establishing the school in its new site. The Southern California conference, recognizing the importance of this move, started our removal fund with a gift of $2500. When this was announced, the brethren present came forward with pledges aggregating a like sum.

"The church school proposition will care for itself. Not a cent need be raised for it, as the sale of its present property already effected will nicely establish it in its new location. But retaining the academy building and lots for the use of the church, and the possible need of another church school more centrally located deprives the academy of all its original resources."

Elder Adams made it plain that the Seventh Day Adventist church will have one of the finest schools in California when all the proposed plans are carried out, and stated that already many people were planning to move to Glendale because of the enterprise launched by the school board.

Prof. Lucas, the former principal of San Fernando academy, outlined the proposed educational work, and made the members feel that they were indeed fortunate to secure the new school site.

Dr. Alspaugh, Mr. Howerth, Prof. Oakes and others spoke along the same line, and assured the members that the children would be well taken care of, and that the matter of transportation, etc., would be worked out to the best interests of all.

L. A. CHAMBER OF COMMERCE EXPERT VISITS GLENALDE

Mr. Morris, assistant chairman of the organization and service department of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, has come to Glendale to spend most of the week in making a survey of conditions here preparatory to opening the expansion membership and service fund campaign of the Glendale chamber which starts June 4.

GLENDALE SEWER PLAN WINS BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS OF LOS ANGELES

Members Express Approval of System Connecting Local Disposal With Outfall Presented by Glendale Councilmen in Conference

PROSPECTS ARE EXCEEDINGLY BRIGHT

Board Will Make Recommendations to the Council of Larger City Which Will Show Advantages to Come to Los Angeles Districts

Glendale's sewer problem was presented to the board of public works of the city of Los Angeles yesterday, and although no definite action was taken by that body, the various members expressed themselves as being very much impressed by the proposition made by the council of this city. All of the Los Angeles officials present expressed themselves as being in favor of accepting Glendale's proposition, so that taken as a whole the chances of this city securing sewage disposal facilities in the near future are brighter than they have ever been.

The proposition that is now being considered is as follows:

Glendale will construct the sewer from this city to Los Angeles, at a cost of not to exceed $800,000. This it will give to Los Angeles for the privilege of connecting to the big outfall of that city. In addition, Glendale will pay her share of the maintenance of the treating plant which Los Angeles maintains at the seashore, the cost to be based on the population of Glendale in reference to the other sections using the plant.

The portion of the minutes of the Los Angeles city council relative to this proposition was read to the board by Charles H. Treat, president of the board of public works. He presented the matter in detail and after discussing the proposition at length he stated that he was very favorably impressed with the offer made by this city, and that he would recommend to the Los Angeles council that a favorable vote be given the mattter by that body.

The Los Angeles city engineer, Major John A. Griffin, was present to explain the engineering points of the problem. He went into detail so that the members of the board might have a clear idea of what they were considering. He stated that so far as the engineering department is concerned he saw no reason why Glendale's offer should not be accepted.

Other members of the board stated that the matter looked mighty good to them and that they could see no reason why Glendale should not be given connection to the Los Angeles sewer.

The members of the Los Angeles council and the various officials of that city realize, it was pointed out, that the cesspools of Glendale are not only a menace to the health of the residents of this city, but also to the people living in Los Angeles. More or less the drainage from Glendale's cesspools filters down into the Los Angeles river, and, it is realized, will eventually find its way into the wells that are operated by Los Angeles in the river bed in Griffith Park.

It can be plainly seen that with Glendale growing as she is the only way the contamination of both the Glendale and the Los Angeles water supply can be averted is for the sewage of this city and of the cities in this district, to be handled by the sewer method.

The legal and engineering departments of Glendale and Los Angeles are now at work getting the details of the matter ready for the Los Angeles council, which has set the rehearing of the proposition for next Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

Those from Glendale present yesterday included Mayor Robinson, Councilmen Horn and Hall, and W. E. Hewitt, vice-president of the Glendale chamber of commerce.

"All of the city officials of Los Angeles whom we have had anything to do with in this matter have been wonderfully nice to us," said Mayor Robinson this morning. "We have presented the status of our sewer proposition to them and they have listened to our plea. They see the plight this city is in and they are all inclined to come to our rescue. They have shown their willingness to meet us more than half way. What more could we expect? We are more than pleased at the reception we received in the big sister city."

ELKS CELEBRATE MOTHERS' DAY ON MONDAY

Two Hundred and Fifty Attend Regular Meeting of Lodge

Mothers' Day was most fittingly celebrated at the regular meeting of the Glendale lodge of Elks last night with a program of music and talks. There were about 250 members present. The Elks orchestra was present and gave several selections. Frank Jackson rendered a saxophone solo.

Stanley Frentz of the relief committee gave an unusual talk pertaining to mothers in which he told what some mothers in this vicinity, who had through the illness or death of their husbands been left to care for large families, had done and how they had accomplished it.

A program of musical entertainment was put on by the Hollywood Ladies' Quartet, conducted by Miss Myra Belle Vickers, who is also the teacher of Alfred Bryant of Glendale. Mr. Bryant gave several solo numbers during the evening, which were also much appreciated.

James Apffel, exalted ruler, promises to spring some surprise features at the meeting of the members of No. 1289 next Monday night. There will also be balloting on candidates for membership. A meeting of the investigating committee will be held this Wednesday night. Over twenty reservations have been made by the officers and members of the Glendale lodge for the banquet and reception to be given Saturday night at the Ambassador Hotel for Admiral Eberle by the Southern California Elks.

Plans are being made for the next Elks dance, which will be held on Saturday night, May 26. Admission will be $1 per couple and will be for Elks only and their ladies. The proceeds will go towards the band benefit.

PADDOCK'S RACE SUSTAINED BY S. CAL. ASSOCIATION

Refuses to Sustain the Disqualification of A. A. U.

[By Associated Press]

LONG BEACH, May 15.—Members of the Southern California Association of the Amateur Athletic Union at a meeting here refused to sustain the action of the national body in disqualifying Charles W. Paddock, sprinter, of the University of Southern California, from amateur competition because he ran in the international students' meet in Paris, it was said today.

Paddock will return to the United States in time to run for U. S. C. in the National Collegiate Association meet at Chicago next month, according to Paddock's father, C. H. Paddock. At that time Paddock will challenge eastern sprinters to meet him in races for distances between 50 and 300 yards, said Mr. Paddock.

CLARENCE L. SMITH IS GIVEN ORDERS

At the Monday night meeting of Knights Templar Commandery, of which Dr. R. V. Hogue is commander, the order of Malta and order of the Red Cross were conferred upon Clarence L. Smith, by local officers.

This was the chief business of the session aside from discussion of plans for "ladies' night" next Monday evening when the wives, daughters and sweethearts of members will be entertained at a 6:30 dinner to be followed by a good entertainment and social evening.

BIG ATTENDANCE IS EXPECTED AT HI THIS EVENING

Community Sing to Be Momentous Event in the Service

Indications are that there will be a large crowd at the big community sing being put on by by Community Service at the high school auditorium tonight.

The University of Southern California's Glee club will sing many group and solo numbers, in addition to special features. Mr. J. A. Lewis, well known Los Angeles song leader, will be present to conduct community singing. Mr. Ben F. Pearson, chairman of the Los Angeles music week committee, and general manager of the operating department of the Southern California Edison company, will bring a message from the former organization in regard to Los Angeles' big music week parade on Saturday, May 19.

Plans will also be made at this meeting for Glendale's attendance at the big community sing in Hollywood next Sunday afternoon. Mrs. J. J. Carter, president of Hollywood's organization, has extended an invitation to Glendale to come over there next Sunday.

An evening of fine music and a splendid social time are in store for all who come to the high school tonight at 8 o'clock. There will be no admission charge. A silver offering will be taken up to defray expenses of the Glee club. The Fitzgerald Music company of Los Angeles is sending out a Knabe piano specially for this occasion.

HIGH 'GUEST DAY' SET FOR WEDNESDAY

Every Parent Attending Asked to Bring a Frined

Wednesday afternoon has been designated as "Guest Day" at the High School P.-T. A. and each mother who attends is asked to bring a friend. The following program has been prepared and will be presented at the opening of the meeting in the auditorium:

Mixed Quartet, Selected:
Gertrude Heideman, Winifred Parker, Claude Whitfield and Irvin Garver
Piano Solo, "To Spring".....Greig
Arthur Crowell
A Sketch, "The Proposal"....Walker
Cast: Eloene Truitt, Ed Stockbridge and Caryll White

As this is the last meeting of the year reports of the different committees will be presented and election of officers held. At the close of the business session refreshments will be served and the mothers and teachers be given an opportunity to enjoy a social time together. All patrons and friends of the school will find a cordial welcome.

REPORTS OF LOSS AT HOT SPRINGS

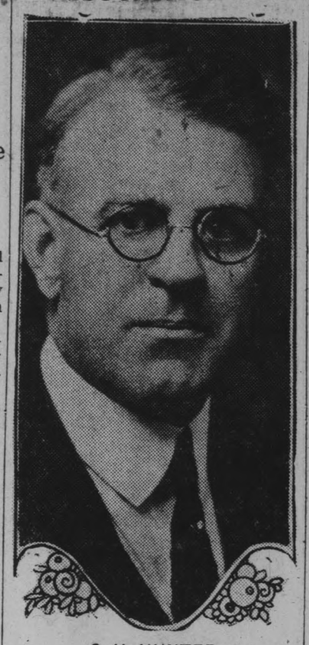
NEW PRESIDENT OF MOTOR DEALERS' ASSOCIATION HERE



C. H. HUNTER
Distributer of Oldsmobile and Columbia Car Elected President of Local Organization

The new president of the Glendale Motor Dealers' Association is one of the most progressive spirits in the upbuilding of the automobile business of Glendale.

Mr. Hunter was formerly the wholesale manager of the J. W. Leavitt company, wholesale distributors of the Oldsmobile, but for the past six months has had charge of the Oldsmobile agency in Glendale.

"The Glendale Motor Car Dealers' Association exists for the interests of the dealer and the motoring public," stated Mr. Hunter. "The association has been in existence for one year, and now has sixteen members. An invitation has been extended to several new dealers to become members, and they have expressed their intentions of doing so. We meet once a month at luncheon to talk over the problems that confront the dealer and motorist.

"It is our object," he stated, "to create a good feeling among the dealers and we derive much social benefit from these meetings."

J. O. CRAMER DIES OF INJURIES IN SANITARIUM

Struck Monday by Street Car and Knocked From Truck

John O. Cramer, 65 years old, a hardwood floor worker, of 316 South Adams street, was fatally injured when an automobile which he was driving was struck by a street car at the intersection of Verdugo and San Fernando, Monday morning. He died at the Glendale sanitarium at about 8:30 o'clock last night of fracture of the skull. The body was taken to the L. G. Scovern Undertaking company.

Immediately after the accident, Mr. Cramer was taken to the Thornycroft hospital by Leonard Graves. Some time later he was removed to the county hospital, and after being permitted to remain there for a while he was for some reason, removed to the Glendale sanitarium.

Mr. Cramer leaves a son, Chas. W. Cramer of 316 South Adams. A coroner's inquest will be held, the date for which has not been set.

CHILDREN BITTEN BY VICIOUS DOGS

Two dog-biting incidents have just been reported to the Glendale police. Mary Jane Hilffich, 10 years old, of 515 East Lexington, was severely bitten by a vicious dog that is owned by the people living at 516 North Kenwood street, according to the police department. The child's left leg was injured in several places, and the wounds were taken care of by Dr. Young. Officer Hobensack has been instructed to pick the dog up. It will be held for observation.

Little John McCurty, 7 years old, of 1636 Gardena avenue, was badly bitten by a dog yesterday. He was given treatment by a local physician. Officer Hobensack has been notified to pick up the animal.

VALLEY CHAMBERS OF COMMERCE TO HOLD MEETING

CALL FOR TEAMS

Those Who Are Interested Should Report at 7 p. m. Tomorrow

The athletic field of the high school grounds is now well lighted with eight huge lights. An opportunity is presented for evening baseball and enthusiasts in that popular sport will take advantage of it tomorrow, Wednesday, night, May 16, at 7 o'clock.

All groups interested in forming teams are invited to come to the high school grounds on Wednesday night at 7 o'clock. Preliminary practice will be held and a schedule worked out within the next few days. There is ample space for all who wish to play and an opportunity for those taking the exercise to use the showers in the high school building after the events.

There is no charge for participation in baseball and all the young men in the city are invited and urged by Community Service to come out.

Any additional groups wishing to enter should register with R. E. Tucker, secretary of Community Service, at 150 South Brand boulevard.

MAIL SERVICE ON KENNETH ROAD AUTHORIZED

Postmaster Jackson Receives Permission to Extend Service

Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson is very happy over the opportunity which the department at Washington has afforded him to change his tune in regard to its attitude.

In a communication received this morning he was authorized to extend city delivery service on Kenneth road from Central to Pacific and from Pacific and Kenneth Road to Glenwood road; also on West Broadway from Pacific to San Fernando Road. This will mean two deliveries daily and will take effect July 1.

To obtain this service residents in the sections mentioned must provide either door slots or suitable mail receptacles.

This action by the department follows the line of recommendations made by Postmaster Jackson over a year ago and it will affect several hundreds of Glendale residents.

He expects that the next service improvement will be in Verdugo Woodlands.

The seizure was made in the Cory residence here.

HOPE FOR EUROPE THEME OF TOM SKEYHILL

Australian War Hero Denounces War and Pleads Peace As Europe's Only Hope

The high light of the Chautauqua program was undoubtedly Tom Skeyhill's lecture last night on "Europe's Renaissance" and that the people in general are intensely interested in this subject was evidenced by the large attndance and close attention given the speaker throughout the almost two hours of the talk.

Mr. Skeyhill commenced with the history of mankind, which he said began a million years in the past and continued as a record of barbarian simplicity until 7000 years ago. when the Egyptian and Babylonian civilizations emerged, to be followed by those of the Jews, the Persians, the Cretans, the Greeks and lastly the Romans. These all flourished for a time and then fell, the Roman empire disintegrating four centries A. D. From then to the 13th century, when our present civilization began, is called the dark ages. All fell as a result of three things: ungodliness, war and moral decadence. Our own civilization will fall from the same causes, he declared, unless we heed the warning now. History, he said, is a race between education and catastrophe, and heretofore the latter has always won. And it is well on the way to another victory, he declared, unless we turn short about. "Germany did hot bring on the world war; it was not the doing of the Kaiser. I may be misunderstood in this statement and called a pro-German, but I am not. I have wounds from German bayonets in both my hands, German bullets in my left leg and I was blind three years from the effects of the bursting of a German shell. I fought in the trenches two years. So I can't be accused of being pro-German. But Germany alone did not bring on the war. It had to come, as a result of wrong political methods, a divided, dogmatic, liturgical church that condemned individual sins but ignored those of society, and a general breaking down of morality. And, given the same conditions, war will come again.

"But there is hope for the future in the young men. I traveled over Russia, Turkey, Italy, France, Germany and England, and everywhere the talk of the young men was for peace. They said they were tired of war and its horrors. Therein lies the hope for the permanence of our civilization. When the young men lay in the trenches, facing death every moment, they reached out and clutched the hand of the real and living Christ. When they came home at last they flocked to the churches, but they soon left them, for the real, living, sympathetic Christ was not there. Nor will they go back to the churches until the old dogmas, meaningless rituals and forms, dull liturgies and the glossing over of social sins give place to a real, vigorous presentation of a living, breathing, acting, sympathetic Christ and an aggressive campaign for the right.

"I am speaking, remember, of the situation in Europe as I saw it and know it. I do not know what the conditions in your own country are, and I do not care to speak of them unknowingly, for I am your guest."

Mr. Skeyhill enumerated five things which he said the young men of the world were demanding, among them peace, a real Christian church, free from meaningless forms and platitudes, and, above all the building of a race of strong, virile men by the universal practice of eugenics. For, was his comment, why should we be careful and systematic in plant and animal breeding, yet pay not the slightest attention to the breeding of men. The other two were constructive science and an international exchange of ideas as well as theories and plans for better living. The old, reactionary politicians are still clinging to the theory and practice that might makes right and that war is a necessity. It is for the young men of all nations, who are the ones always called upon to fight in the wars the old politicians provoke, to put an eternal veto upon all war. And they can if they will.

Mr. Skeyhill's expressions regarding the failure of the church of dogma, ecclesiasticism and meaningless forms to uplift the world and his denunciations of war paralleled almost exactly the words of a sermon delivered in a Glendale pulpit last Sunday and which is published in full in today's issue of the Daily Press.

IRISH FIANACE

It is reported that the Irish Free State government is soon to be in the market for a loan to carry it through the next six months or so, and that this money will probably be raised in Ireland.

The new budget amounts to £37,000,000 or about $162,800,000.

Official statistics for 1920 show that the revenue of the 26 counties was £30,000,000 or $132,000,000, and exceeded the expenditures by £8,000,000, or $35,200,000.

However, it is pointed out that about £12,000,000, or $52,000,000, of this year's budget is for extraordinary expenses which are not permanent, such as compensation for property destroyed in fighting, and pensions for judges, members of the constabulary, and other employees of the British government who were succeeded by Irishmen.

AMERICAN WHEAT MILLING AIDS RELIEF

Red Cross Hears of Results in Work at Salonica

ATHENS, May 15.—Milling of wheat used by the American Red Cross in feeding 75,000 refugees in the Salonika area in the mills of that district is being made to pay for the cost of distributing the bread in the city of Salonika, thus making the American dollar go an extra distance in relief work.

This information is reported to Colonel William N. Haskell, American Red Cross Commissioner to Greece, by Leon K. Wiese, field director of the work at Salonica. The Salonica area is third largest in proportion of the million refugees from Asia Minor and Eastern Thrace, there being about 142,000 in the district.

How Mr. Wiese, whose home is in Anacortes, Washington, has been able to accomplish this saving is explained in his letter as follows: "The price for the milling is 20 drachmas for each 100 okes (an oke is slightly less than three pounds). For each 100 okes the mill returns to us 90 okes of dark flour and 10 okes of bran. The sale of the latter under a contract returns to us 2.20 drachmas an oke, so that we receive from the sale of the bran 22 drachmas while the milling of the 100 okes of wheat costs 20 drachmas. As we mill 13,000 okes of wheat a day, the profit just about covers our expense of distributing bread in the city of Salonika."

In connection with this change from white bread to dark, the American Red Cross received complaints from some of the refugees who said they had been in the habit of selling white bread and buying a double amount of black bread and who wanted, therefore, a double portion of the black bread.

In one other case, a complaint came from a woman refugee who said she wanted white bread because she had never been accustomed to eating black bread.

In addition to the feeding of black bread the food given out by the American Red Cross includes beans and rice, issued on alternate days. The rice is reported to be particularly popular because of the fact that it grows in size while cooking.

THE MARKETS

[By Associated Press]

NEW YORK, May 15. — Stock prices displayed a firm tone in the opening of today's stock market but sagged again when selling pressure was resumed against recent speculative favorites. Studebaker broke below 110, the lowest price of the year, and United States and Bethlehem Steels came within a small fraction of the year's low record. Sales approximated 625,000 shares.

HUGHES' FILM IS PICTURE OF LIFE IN FILMDOM

Rupert Hughes' new photoplay, "Souls for Sale," which he picturized from his own novel of movie life in Hollywood for Goldwyn is the "Show Shop" of filmdom. What James Forbes' play did for the stage, Mr. Hughes' "Souls for Sale" does for motion-pictures. This film is now at the Glendale theatre.

Mr. Hughes is responsible for the statement that most of the incidents which he pictures in his novel and in the screen version of it are taken from happenings which he has seen at the studio and on location.

"A lot of the incidents in this picture really have happened either to my company or that of other directors," says Mr. Hughes. "For instance, take the accident with the wind-propeller which happens in this story: That really happened to Patsy Ruth Miller in 'Remembrance,' when night scenes were being taken at 4:30 in the morning, when everybody was dead tired and shivering with cold, and somebody had moved the wind machine slightly, so that Miss Miller was within two feet of being struck by the thing which would inevitably have killed her had she taken two steps more in the dark. Four people have lately been killed by those things, by the way, in the making of pictures. The dangers to the picture actors have never been exaggerated in fiction—in fact, they have never been really told."

CITIZENS OF TOMORROW

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.

(Copyright, 1923, by The Associated Newspapers)

It is axiomatic that in order to insure a healthy, competent, right-minded citizenry favorable conditions of child nurture are indispensable.

"As the twig is bent, so the tree inclines," is no mere figure of speech, whether applied to trees or human beings. Parental ignorance and neglect in the matter of child rearing inevitably mean a handicapping for adult life; it may be a handicapping so serious as to make of the unwisely reared child a grave social liability.

And it is not only in the matter of physical health that careful nurture is required.

Failure to train for mental vigor and emotional control, failure to inculcate sound moral principles, are even more disastrous. For the neglected ones then grow up predisposed to conduct disorders menacing the integrity of the social organisms of which they are parts.

This being so, the prevalence today of vice, crime, mental disease and economic inefficiency points directly to a prevalence of faulty home conditions. And it unmistakably suggests that, if community and national well-being are to be maintained, some way must be devised to rouse parents more generally to a sense of their responsibilities.

The need for this is indeed definitely demonstrated by the findings of a recent survey of child life, undertaken in a certain Boston district by Dr. Marianna Taylor of the Boston Psychopathic hospital.

Visiting "a random group of homes" with a district worker, Dr. Taylor studied closely the conditions under which nearly 200 children were being brought up, and the discernible effects of those conditions on the children. Here are a few of the discoveries she made:

Twenty-two out of 190 children showed nervous symptoms such as "fidgetiness and choreiform movements, shivering, twitching of eyes and face." Nearly twice as many (39) otherwise manifested nervousness by various disorders of sleep.

Fifty-two habitually indulged in "tantrums." Forty-one could justly be put in the category of spoiled children, being "stubborn, difficult and uncontrolled." Eleven were "excessively bold," thirteen "excessively timid."

Five were addicted to "biting and scratching others," five to truancy and running away from home. Eighteen had been in one school grade two years, while thirteen were more seriously retarded mentally. Three suffered from epilepsy. Eighteen had "mentally deficient, epileptic or psychotic parents."

Dr. Taylor is, rightly, of the opinion that, from her report of the survey she made, "those interested in mental hygiene can gain food for thought." So can all whose business it is or should be—as politicians, publicists, health authorities, and so forth—to labor earnestly for the public good.

Let home conditions such as those found in this one Boston district continue uncorrected and it needs no prophet to predict an ever-increasing national burden and threat in the way of citizens unequal to the task of meeting life's demands and co-operating for he maintenance of the nation.

CHINESE BEGIN TO SWAT FLIES FOR HEALTH

Flies are becoming daily more unpopular in China, according to Dr. W. W. Peter, a member of the council of health education in Shanghai and a director of the American Child Health association, who says that floats of gigantic flies larger than a life-sized horse were carried in the recent dragon boat festival at Hangchow. These tremendous fly figures, with the familiar legend—"Swat the fly"—printed in Chinese across their chests, made a deep impression on small Chinese boys who straggled along beside the parade as small boys do in parades all over the world. Nor were flies the only attraction. Large paper images of mosquitoes, fleas and even rats were an exciting feature of the parade and sometimes a flea appeared in the shape of a kite soaring above the heads of the children.

"On the morning of the festival almost a thousand students paraded the principal streets of Hangchow carrying all kinds of banners bearing health mottos," says J. C. Oliver of the Hangchow Y. M. C. A. "The association decided to launch its first big health campaign at this time and inject modern scientific ideas of health and sanitation. There were exhibits of every conceivable health asset—soap, disinfectants, pure milk, products, mosquito incense, umbrellas, fans, fly swatters and summer clothing. The whole city turned out to see the exhibits—rickshaw men, coolies, police, students, church and Y. M. C. A. members, business men and professional men. They sat seriously and with rapt attention watched the movie films entitled, 'Keeping a Big City Clean; Tuberculosis; War on the Mosquito; the Evils of the House Fly.' To illustrate the dangers of germs there were wax figures with a wax germ shown wearing away the vital organs. Under the direction of one of the leading Chinese physicians, 1634 persons were weighed and examined."

The lessons of the health exhibit have become engraved in the minds of the Hangchow public, Dr. Peter things.

"We have had many requests for literature from students who have gone home for the summer and wish to conduct small health campaigns in their country villages. It is becoming quite common to see fruit stands and food shops using screens to keep off the flies. Fly swatters and fly and rat traps are now offered for sale in many of the shops of Hangchow and the city authorities are taking great care to keep the city clean."

Dr. Peter has just completed a health survey of Southern Asia under the auspices of the Council of Health Education. He is a member of the board of directors of the American Child Health association which, with Herbert Hoover as president, has been formed recently for the promotion and protection of child health work in America.

A man, who had several times sought the help of his minister in securing employment, was lounging near a railway station as the good man was hurrying to catch a train.

"Excuse me, sir," said the unemployed one in a trembling voice.

"Are you out of work again?" the minister asked.

"Yes, sir," was the reply.

"It seems to me," said the minister severely, "it seems to me you get tired of new employers very quickly."

"Don't misrepresent me, sir," pleaded the man. "It can never be truthfully said that I get tired first.

ATWATER DISTRICT FOLKS ORGANIZE AN ASSOCIATION

Realizing that there is more weight in numbers, particularly when requests for improvements are being made, the residents of the Atwater district have organized an improvement association, which met last night in the Wilson building at Seneca avenue and Glendale boulevard, just south of the Glendale city limits, and was attended by over 200 interested parties.

Officers elected included W. W. Rainey, president; Mr. Hurley, vice president; P. E. Lipscomb, secretary-treasurer.

BELIEVE CAPTURED MAN WANTED IN THEFT

[By Associated Press]

PHOENIX, Ariz., May 15.—The belief of the authorities that the man arrested here yesterday under the name of L. H. White is Andrew L. Hepler, wanted at Butler, Pa., on embezzlement charges totaling $300,000, was strengthened today when department of justice officials going through White's personal effects, discovered letters addressed to Hepler and newspaper clippings telling of Hepler's business activities in Butler.

If the victims were snoosers, police magistrates would be men of few words and short sentences.

"N'ER DO WELL" OPENS TONIGHT AT THE T. D. & L.

Few persons have been privileged to look upon the Pacific and Atlantic oceans at the same time. When Thomas Meighan's latest Paramount picture, "The Ne'er Do Dell" is shown at the T. D. and L. theatre today, the number will be greatly increased, for one of the aeroplane views of the Panama canal featured in the picture gives a view of both oceans.

During the filming of exterior scenes for Rex Beach's novel in Panama, Director Alfred E. Green sent William Miller, cameraman, into the air to get certain scenes of the locks for use in the picture. While at a high altitude, Mr. Miller was able to get a shot which gave a glimpse of both the Atlantic and Pacific.

In making other air views for the picture, seven DeHaviland planes and two Martin bombers, all furnished by the U. S. army fliers, were used. The army officers who helped the Paramount company in making these scene for "Ne'er Do Well" were Major F. Walsh, Captain Smith, Captain Minter, Captain R. Quinn, Lieut. Leland Miller, Lieut. Moon, Lieut. Webster and Lieut. Fred Clark. All of these officers are stationed at France field, Canal Zone.

THURSDAY CLUB PREPARES FOR MAY FETE

Members of the Thursday Afternoon club are busy this week making preparations for the May festival bazaar and dance to be given May 18 for the benefit of the building fund. The children of the Cerritos Avenue school, where the bazaar will be held, are co-operating for the festival and under direction of the principal are planning an interesting program, which will be put on Friday afternoon, May 18, beginning at 2:20 o'clock.

There will be all kinds of booths where useful and fancy articles will be on sale. From 5 p. m. until 7 a barbecue supper will be served by William Gould. The club members are also planning to give a street dance on the street in the vicinity of Cerritos avenue and Brand boulevard, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. Music for dancing will be furnished by Kelley's Shrine orchestra. Mrs. E. V. Bacon is general chairman in charge of arrangements for the Thursday Afternoon club.

There will be a short business meeting of the members on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. L. Bancroft, when the election of officers for the ensuing year will take place. The members will then adjourn to the school grounds to complete arrangements for the festival and bazaar.

CENTRAL AVENUE FOLKS TO MEET

The moving spirits in the movement to organize property owners on Central avenue into an improvement association to promote the paving of the street and the establishment of a set-back line, will have a conference today and set the date for the calling of mass meeting of such residents at which officers will be elected and promotion work will be planned.

THE HE-MAN

Recent literature seems to have produced a new type of man. He is referred to on the stage, in the newspapers, in the movies, in general conversation, and at the clubs of both men and women.

He is, apparently, the successor to the cave man, though totally different in aspect and manner.

He is the He-Man.

What kind of a man is this so-called He-Man? Where does he come from? Why is he called a He-Man? In what respect or respects is he different from the ordinary run of man? What does he look like? Etc., etc.

I have conducted a little investigation, but I have been unable to obtain any authoritative or specific information concerning him. I consulted a young man of my acquaintance, and when I asked him to tell me something about the He-Man he smiled.

"The He-Man," he said, "originally came from the wide open spaces out there—where men are men."

"Aren't men men here in the city?" I inquired. "Why is the man who lives in the wide open spaces a He-Man?"

"You had better consult with the people who write novels and produce movies and plays," he answered. "I know many men who are men, but I've never met the He-Man, personally, in the flesh. I wouldn't even recognize him if I saw him. There's one thing about him I forgot to mention—he's red-blooded."

I ask if the average run of men weren't red-blooded, too. Judged by the standards of men, I should say my friend was red-blooded, and I thought he himself might be a He-Man.

I put the question to him, then stuffed my ears in horror.

"The He-Man," he ejaculated, "is a cross between the Sheik and the men you see on magazine covers and in collar advertisements. Do I look like either?"

And that's the closest I got to finding out just who the He-Man is and what he looks like.

MISS WALTERS TO GIVE FIRST DANCE AT SPARR HTS.

To Initiate Social History of Community Center With Hollywood Classmates

Elaborate preparations are under way for the commencement dance May 26, when Miss Pauline Walters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Walters of 1925 Hillcrest road, Hollywood, will entertain 120 guests, members of the graduating class of the Hollywood high school, at the new community center building now being completed at Sparr Heights.

Miss Walters is a popular member of the graduating class, and is planning a delightful evening for her guests at the community center building, which is to form the chief social center of Sparr Heights, where the new Walters residence is to be built.

An attractive feature of the evening will be the music furnished by the Hollywood orchestra known as the "Californians." A number of distinguished Hollywood matrons will assist Mrs. Walters in receiving the guests.

BRAND AT HARVARD
Our 1st Anniversary SALE Continues All Week
The spontaneous expressions of congratulation from Glendale's older stores, merchants, bankers and people upon our closing the first twelve months' service to our community will carry us far in the twelve months ahead, to inspire our devotion, to encourage our efforts, in the knowledge that every thought we put forth in merchandising, in constructive building for the bigger city will meet again with the encouragement that marked the end of our first year's adventuring in the heart of this, now our own, community.

American Red Cross Starts Campaign to Diminish Water Tragedies in U. S.

© International News Reel
Miss Sophie Ruehl, 18, of Dubuque, Ia., who recently hung up a record of swimming 12 miles in the Mississippi. She is one of 6,000 women members of the Red Cross Life-Saving Corps.

Upper—The crack Jacksonville, Fla., Red Cross Life-Saving Corps which has many rescues to its credit. Center (standing) is Commodore W. E. Longfellow, national field agent of the corps.

Lower—Red Cross Life-Saving experts at Long Pond, Plymouth, Mass., giving instruction in modern methods of resuscitation of persons rescued from the water.

WITH the swimming and boating season already starting up in some sections of the country, the American Red Cross, through its Life-Saving Corps, is inaugurating an intensive campaign to lower the appalling loss of life in the United States through drowning. Statistics it has compiled show that in 1921, 6,489 men, women and children died in the waters of the United States through accidents, while during the last ten years the total of such deaths has reached almost 60,000.

The means by which the Red Cross will carry on its fight against water accidents will be extension of the Life-Saving instruction it provides through its own experts or fosters through community Life-Saving campaigns. Already 439 Red Cross Chapters in continental United States are providing Life-Saving instruction, and it is purposed to greatly increase the number.

In particular will the Red Cross strive to reach the children. Of the more than 27,000 certificated Life-Savers enrolled in the Red Cross Life-Saving Corps, 10,000 are Juniors and a quota of 21,000 additional Junior Life-Savers has been set.

In addition to instruction provided through its Chapters, the Red Cross will conduct two large Life-Saving Institutes for the instruction of those in charge of boys' and girls' summer camps and others. These institutes will be held at Long Pond, Plymouth, Mass., and Lake Geneva, Wis., not far from Chicago.

In a message to the Chapters, Judge John Barton Payne, Chairman of the American Red Cross, says:

"Too many preventable drownings occur annually. The total of 58,429 during the ten years ended with 1921 is appalling. The Red Cross is exercising one of its charter functions along lines of intense practicality in the campaign of Life-Saving which it has inaugurated, and I invoke the hearty aid of Chapter workers in carrying it to a successful conclusion."

HOME NURSING and HEALTH HINTS

THE IMPORTANC E OF SOAP

"It's all very senseless, making such a fuss over the soap you use for the baby," said the woman who had never had one, as she followed her friend out of the drugstore.

The Newest Mother flushed. She was trying to be patient, but these friends who were always telling her how to take care of her baby made it very hard for her.

"As a matter of fact," she replied, "soap is very important. A baby has just delicate skin. You know you can't even rub a baby with a soft towel without irritating that rose leaf skin. You must just pat the skin dry, ever so gently.

"The doctor said," continued the Newest Mother, and her companion pricked up her ears, for the doctor was the lion of the town at the moment, being a new comer and young and handsome.

"The doctor said that one could not be too careful about the selection of a soap for a little baby.

"It is not always the most expensive soap that is best for the skin. Skins are like persons. They have individuality. Some soaps suit them. Others irritate them. Sometimes obscure skin infections and irritations, and even digestive disturbances can be traced to the use of the wrong kind of soap."

Myra Long, listening with more or less attention, scoffed a little. "A good pure soap, nicely scented, made by a reliable manufacturer, is all I ask," she said.

"But you are not a baby. A baby has delicate skin," persisted the Newest Mother. "The doctor told me that the difference in soaps depended chiefly upon the alkali and the fat used to make them.

"Soft soaps are made with potash, you know, and hard soaps with soda.

"Fish oil, cocoanut, palm, and olive oils, even castor oil, are used for soap.

"Castile soap is supposed to be the best because it is so carefully made from soda and olive or castor oil. It is very pure, and being unscented, one is surer of its purity.

"Do you know anything about the history of soap?" the Newest Mother continued, intent upon keeping the conversation away from the care of babies. Myra Long shook her head.

"Well, early in the middle ages some one discovered that after wood was burned certain soluble salts were left in the ashes. When boiled in pots of water these salts gave up a solid residue. Or rather, after boiling, it remained in the pot. This residue had cleansing properties like soap.

"The women were all interested. They called this substance potashes. Soon it became officially known as potash or lye.

"In 1775 burned wood was the only known source of potash. The Academy of Paris offered a prize in that year to any one who could turn ordinary salt into a carbonate that would have similar cleansing properties to potash.

After twenty-six years of research and experimentation a Frenchman named Le Blanc discovered a process which converted sodium chloride or salt, into sodium carbonate, or washing soda. As such it still is in use today. Isn't that interesting?"

Her companion nodded. "But it hasn't got a great deal to do with the baby's skin," she said. "Though I suppose the more one knows about the ingredients that should or should not be present in soap the more liable is one to recognize a pure soap when buying, especially for the nursery."

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the parlors of L. G. Scovern Undertaking company, with interment at Grandview.

Senator Hale of Maine was making a tour of the battle fields of the civil war and at one place found an old lady sitting in front of a modest home with a large front and back yard. Politely doffing his sat, he said: "Aunty, did they do any fighting near your home during the civil war?"

"Well, sir, I should say they did," she warmly replied. "They fit all over my front yard and they fit all up and down my back yard, and they completely ruined a brand new ash can for me. War sure is hoible, ain't it?"

MOTHERS' DAY IS CELEBRATED IN CANYON

Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Give Luncheon in Honor of Mrs. Hellstrom

Mothers' Day was beautifully observed at a luncheon given by Mr. and Mrs. Perry Oswald of Glendale at the Sunset Canyon Country club, in honor of Mrs. Oswald's mother, Mrs. Hellstrom. Mrs. Hellstrom has been visiting her daughter during the past year and will return to her home in Sweden in the latter part of the month. The luncheon was a surprise on Mrs. Hellstrom, for she did not know that a large party of guests had already assembled at the clubhouse before she arrived. Mrs. Hellstrom received many useful presents which she will take with her on her journey. The decorations were blue and gold. The place cards were decorated with a large boat, a symbol of Mrs. Hellstrom's coming journey. The party spent the afternoon about the grounds of the club. Those present were Mrs. Hellstrom, Mr. and Mrs. Sanborn of Hollywood, Mr. and Mrs. E. Livine and Miss Crystal Livine of Covina, Miss A. Anderson of Pasadena, Mrs. M. Carlson, Miss Jackie MacDonald, Mr. V. Carlson, Mr. G. Carlson, Mr. and Mrs. A. Erickson, Mr. Al Erickson, Mr. and Mrs. L. Olson and family.

GRAND VIEW BOYS WIN FIRST VICTORY

Yesterday was game day in the inter-school baseball league, and some very keen contests were pulled off.

At the Doran street school both the senior and junior teams of girls won from Colorado, the score for the seniors standing 12 to 11, and for the juniors 41 to 14.

At Grandview enthusiasm mounted high over the victories of senior and junior boys' teams over Columbus, the seniors achieving a score of 12 to 11, the junior score standing 9 to 8. This is the first great victory of the season for Grandview and its athletes are very happy over it.

Curing your Golf Troubles

By Jim Barnes

"Dear Mr. Barnes:

I am now starting my third season, but am rather discouraged with my showing in the few times I have played thus far this spring. At the close of last year I was playing around in the 90's pretty consistently, but now I am ten strokes or more a round off my best scores of last year. Why do you suppose this is the case, and what ought I to do to correct my troubles?

H. H. H."

Answer:

What you need to do is to take things rather easy for a while. In the early spring, after you have had several months lay-off, you can't expect to start right in playing as well as you did around the close of the season before. You must remember that it took quite a little time for you to work up to your best game then.

One point very well worth remembering is to keep away from trying to hit the ball too hard. In fact that isn't a bad tip right along through the year, on the first hole or two of every round you start. It takes a little time to warm up to the job, even when you are playing pretty regularly, and at the start of the season it is certainly worth while to swing easily and not try to kill the ball from the start.

Another good point for early season play is to do at least some practice with all of your clubs. You will frequently find that much time as you can spare in practice, and as soon as you find which one is causing the most trouble stick to it, until you find that you have gotten it under control again.

NEWS OF EAGLE ROCK

RALPH GALBRAITH PASSES AWAY SUDDENLY

Leaves Young Wife with Two Children, Youngest Two Days Old

A black-eyed baby boy, Donald Lee Galbraith, 15 months old, points to the picture of a man in his little linen books today with a gleeful but questioning cry, "Da da?" He looks about the room and pulling at his grandmother's sleeve his eyes plead with her to answer the question which he can only ask with "Da da." The little woman turns away as she says, "No baby, Daddy isn't here. Daddy's gone."

But the little one is too young to realize what the tears rolling down the little woman's cheeks mean. And another little one, two days old, sleeps in the curve of his proud young mother's arm in a hospital, blissfuly unaware in his days of awakening to this life that he has been robbed of a precious possession, his father. For he will not know the joy of running to be tossed in "Daddy's" arms at night when the father comes home to his family after work. These two little boys lost their daddy Monday morning about 3 o'clock, when Ralph L. Galbraith passed away at his home, 110 E. Eagle avenue.

Mr. Galbraith, just 31 years old, has been a patient sufferer from heart trouble for 14 years, but has been able to pursue a sedentary occupation. For the past three years he has been bookkeeper for the Union Hardware and Metal company in Los Angeles. He has resided in Eagle Rock for a year and a half. He leaves the young wife with the two little boys to shield until they are old enough to take their place at her side. His own mother sits at home with little Donald Lee, crushing back her own sorrow, and awaiting the return of the bereaved young mother who will have need of all her sympathy and courage.

Mr. Galbraith's death was sudden. He had been apparently in as good health as usual upon retiring Sunday night. But in the night he called his mother to him, and realizing that his condition was serious, Dr. Deitrich of Glendale was called. About 3 o'clock Mr. Galbraith passed away, leaving his little family without their protector and comforter. Mr. Galbraith has several brothers and sisters living in the east.

Funeral arrangements have not been announced.

LIGHT EARTHQUAKE SHOCK FELT IN EAGLE ROCK

EAGLE ROCK, May 15.—A slight earthquake was felt in Eagle Rock yesterday about 12:30 o'clock. Although it was such a light tremor that it passed unnoticed except by those who were sitting quietly in their homes, or were standing about the streets. But the little swaying twitch, unlike the jar or tremble that travels through thin stratas of ground from distant traffic, brought to the attention of some the fact that they were experiencing a slight earthquake shock. Several felt it quite distinctly while they were sitting at their dinner tables.

Beach Parties Are Popular Amusement

A number of informal swimming parties have been arranged by groups of the young set since the warmer weather has set in. Following an especially pleasurable afternoon at the Venice plunge last Wednesday, another party has been arranged by Ilene Renison for Thursday, at Santa Monica. Those who will participate in the amusement are Marian Lerchin, Alice Parker, Kate Phinney, Helen Miller, Wanda Morrow, Roger Miller, Albert Smith, Frank Lerchin, Arthur Howard, and Ralph McCulloch.

This same group has planned several similar affairs for the near future.

Mrs. Mabel R. Collins has returned to her classes at Central school after a week's absence due to illness in her family.

REDUCED RATE TO "MISSION PLAY" FOR STUDENTS

All Eagle Rock school students will be given an opportunity to see the San Gabriel Mission Play at reduced rates a week from Saturday. A special rate of 55 cents admission has been offered the pupils, and their parents who attend with them. The faculty is desirous of having as many children as possible see this highly instructive feature which is one of the wonder productions of California.

TEACHERS WILL FORSAKE THE 'THREE R'S'

For Picnic Frolic in Santa Monica Canyon Thursday

On Thursday after school Eagle Rock teachers will forget that Johnny Jones brought a fictitious excuse to school, that Sarah Smith will have to be dragged and shoved through the term's reading course, that Susy Brown has a flinty mind in which to carve the rudiments of long division, that Johnny Black will have to be sent home for a scrubbing if he continue to attend classes an illustration of his name, and that Tommy Johnson needs a lesson in discipline; in fact they will all forget that they have a daily interview with the three R's (anyway some of them will).

They will revert to the aumsement of childhood days, and swim and play at camping-out, and hike, and perhaps some will forget to be dignified and take a turn at swinging. Anyway, all will indulge in a regular picnic spree. They will pack lunches and hurry away to Santa Monica canyon immediately after school. There their lunches will be supplemented by hot coffee which they will have the amusement of preparing over an out-door fire. The bath house will urge many to don swimming suits and take a dip in the "briny," and they will not return from their outing until late in the evening.

'CITY FATHERS' OF L. A. 'GLAD-HAND' EAGLE ROCK

EAGLE ROCK, May 15.—Councilman Sanborn: "Los Angeles hung out the latch string and you came along and pulled on it and we are glad that you consolidated us to your beautiful little city."

Loud appiause.

The foregoing is but one of many similar scenes at the "welcome-in" meeting Monday night when Acting Mayor Criswell and the Los Angeles councilmen were the guests of Eagle Rock. A capacity crowd filled the Central school auditorium. The local residents were enthusiastic in their applause whenever the speakers stressed a point in their favor, and as evidence that they were proud to be addressed as a part of Los Angeles the applause was noticeable whenever a speaker scored a turn for the magnitude, the beauty, or the development of public utilities of Los Angeles.

The entire meeting was characterized by a spirit of co-operative friendship. All of the trustees spoke of Eagle Rock as a splendid and appreciated unit of Los Angeles.

The keynote on which Eagle Rock is hinging its future development was struck by Councilman Wheeler when he said that Eagle Rock has only the nucleus here of what will be one of the greatest home communities of the southland. He stated also that Los Angeles officials will listen and assist the local residents in barring from their precincts institutions obnoxious to the purpose for which Eagle Rock is being created—the perfect home community.

Mr. Wheeler assured the local residents that wherever possible the faithful city employees will be retained in some capacity. The names of Trustee Martsolf and Claude Bramble were cited in speaking of those who have spent years in the service of Eagle Rock.

Mr. Wheeler said that he hoped Eagle Rock had no axes to grind, but Acting Mayor Osborne made emphatic several foggy points which, he said, should be cleared up. The cited the change in street names as one drawing the most criticism and comment at present. He was assured by Councilman Allen that Los Angeles did not intend to change the local street names unless petitioned to do so by the residents themselves, as has been the case in numerous other annexed territories.

Those present, and all the Eagle Rock residents who could not attend, were extended a hearty welcome by their adopted "fathers," and they were assured that this valley looks good to Los Angeles; that every effort will be made to keep the local residents contented and satisfied with the administration of the central government in Los Angeles.

The Once Over

BY H. I. PHILLIPS

SENATOR DUMM ON THE HARDING SPEECH

Not So Much a Question of What as What Door He Goes Out By, Join Elk While Thumbing

Door Uncle Same Enters Court By He Thinks—Like Trying to Nose at Exalted Ruler

Dear Dummer: I see President Harding spoke at a meeting of 300 newspaper editors the other day and came out flat for the United States of Sahara joining the World Night Court. The fact that Warren had the nerve to do any talking on an important subject to 300 newspaper men at one time in my opinion is enough to knock silly the claim that he is lacking in courage.

It takes a real brave man to talk to even two editors at one time, or even one, even assuming you can get a word in edgeways.

* * *

The President, as I get him, isn't any too stuck on the court, but thinks Uncle Sam should have a seat in it whenever the clerk calls the docket of new cases, so he can see whether any of his friends are up on charges or not, and if so, why.

* * *

The chances are it will be a very busy little court. From the way the various nations have been acting for the past few years there will be a lot of breach of the peace, and assault and battery cases coming up all the while. The United States always gets dragged into the big fights sooner or later and the President thinks it might as well get in during the preliminary hearings.

* * *

The President thinks it is better for Uncle Sam to sit on a bench a couple of days than stand in a trench a couple of years.

* * *

Now, of course, the catch in the whole business comes in the fact that this World Night Court is a part of the League of Nations. To me it seems the same as if Judge Taft said he would agree to sit on the U. S. Supreme court bench with the strict understanding that he have nothing to do with the United States. Or like a lawyer consenting to practice with the understanding that he have the right to poohpooh the American Bar association.

* * *

Warren insists Uncle Sam can join this world court without having anything to do with the league. All I can say is that it'll be a mighty good trick if he does it.

Personally I think there is no more chance of Uncle Samuel getting away with it than a man who tried to join the Elks and thumb his nose at the grand exalted ruler at the same time.

* * *

In his speech the President declared that the United States would not enter the League of Nations by the side door, back door, or cellar door. This disposes of about all the doors there are except the front door. The thing that worries me is not what door America will go in by, but what door will he go out by. And if so whether he will be able to get out without getting badly injured in the jam.

* * *

I look for a spirited rush to the nearest exit the minute some small nations gets into a row with a larger one, drags the case to court and demands that all the big nations wishing to fight on its side stand up and be measured for a cannon and Sam Browne belt.

O. HOWE DUMM.

"Good afternoon, Mrs. Brokn!" exclaimed Mr. Smith. "What a coincidence, meeting you! I han into your husband an hour ago."

"How funny!" replied Mrs. Brown. "And how did you think he was looking?"

"Pretty poorly."

"Well, I'm surprised to hear you say that. Everyone says that he is looking much better lately."

"Well, he looked bad enough an hour ago," said Mr. Smith.

"I wonder why that was?" asked Mrs. Brown.

"Oh, I can tell you that!" said Mr. Smith. "You see, I was in my car when I ran into him."

HOKARA

Eczema Sufferers All Over the States Praise

Erie, Pa.—"For one year my right hand was a raw sore from eczema. Two jars of Hokara entirely cured me. It is a wonderful remedy and I cannot praise it too highly."

Andover, Ohio—"I had eczema on my limbs and feet for more than 20 years. I was over 70 years old when I started using Hokara and it entirely cured me. It is a wonderful remedy."

Little Rock, Ark.—"I had erysipelas for 30 years and until I used Hokara got only temporary relief. My face was a dreadful sight from this dread disease and so swollen I could hardly see. The erysipelas has entirely gone, thanks to Hokara. It actually did wonders for me."

Old Orchard, Maine—"It was a fortunate day for me when I was advised to use Hokara for my eczema. I certainly was discouraged, as the doctor declared my case was one of the worst he had ever seen. Hokara relieved me at once and in a short time worked a wonderful cure."

Joplin, Mo.—"I suffered with eczema from a child. It was all over my body—even in my hair and bottom of my feet. Hokara cured me. Am entirely well and have been for over two years."

The secret of Hokara's great success in the treatment of the more stubborn cases of eczema and other skin diseases lies in the fact that it contains no grease, that it does not clog the pores and that its powerful yet safe antiseptics are carried through the pores to the underlying cause of all the trouble. It is an actual antiseptic skin food and is obtainable at all first-class drug stores. The Jensen Drug Co. can supply you.—Advertisement.

ECCLESIASTICISM IS DOOMED, SAYS REV. C. A. COLE

Speaker Visions Hope for World in Triumph of the Church

This is the third of a series of sermons preached by Rev. Clifford A. Cole on the general topic, "Is the World Growing Better?" The subject: "Is the Church to Fail? Are Ecclesiasticism and Dogmatic Theory Doomed?" This sermon was preached Sunday evening, May 13, in Central Christian church. The next sermon of the series, to be preached next Sunday evening is one of highest importance, the subject: "The Great Gulf Between Capital and Labor. Can It Be Bridged? If so, How?" This will be of special interest to laboring men, as well as employers).

My text will be found in Matthew 16:16-18 and it is commonly called "The Great Confession."

"I like to think the world is growing better, but sometimes I get a jolt. That's the way I felt when I read that the honor system is successful in prisons but a failure in colleges." These significant statements were made recently. Ponder them.

Lyman Abbott in Outlook: "He who looks backward 100 years must have a genius for pessimism if he can doubt in what direction the unseen forces are carrying the human race."

He who believes God is in the world will find despair for the world impossible.

Any attempt to prove by statistics and by general assertions the truth of my convictions would probably be unsatisfactory and unconvincing. Yet, there are statistics and general assertions that will prove the truth of the statement of Mr. Abbott.

I believe that the day of dogmatic theology and narrow creeds is doomed, that ecclesiastical hierachies are to crumble with kings and their monarchies; that sectarian and party walls will have to come down before this new age; that the old programs must give way to new and better programs for the golden age into which we must surely come. I believe that a divided and wasteful church can never win this world to God. Denominationalism and division, as we find them today, are contrary to the teachings and prayer of the Lord Jesus Christ and absolutely impotent to meet the present situations.

Formalists and ritualists in nearly every European country are either in disrepute or being supplanted by a more democratic and popular church organization.

Bigotry and narrow prejudices have cost the church too much and the coming generation will not stand for them. If we find anything about which to be dismayed in the situation of today it can be largely traced to the lethargy and impotency of the church which have been induced by division and narrowness and sectarian bigotry which are absolutely intolerable in the light of our civilization and of the teachings of Jesus. A united and zealous church could have prevented the World war, instead of standing helplessly by until she, herself, was drawn into the vortex of it. We could do nothing else than approve it when we should have been strong enough to have, long before its coming, branded war as un-Christian and anti-Christian.

One of the most disheartening facts since the war has been the attempt to strengthen party fences and to lax back into the programs of ante-bellum days. The church has faced a mighty cataclysm and is barely out of danger of it now. It is little wonder that voices in many quarters have called these the "last days." What a time it has been for the proclaimer of tragedy and defeat!

But, friends, I believe in God and that Christ had a mission for His church, that He promised to be with it even unto the end of the ages and that "the gates of hell, (and war and bloodshed), would not prevail against it."

Not all of us know how nearly and misgivings have filled the hearts of church leaders for the last five or six years; fears lest the church might not meet the test of changing orders, that her programs could not be enlarged and changed to meet the exigencies of this tremendous time.

Not all of us know how nearly she has made anew her organizations in many instances and is today attempting the task of Christianity with a vision and a purpose, and a faith, and with such success as history has rarely recorded. The swing of the pendulum is toward a great day!

Then, I have a conviction based upon the faith I have in Jesus of Nazareth. Beyond question he believed that His own life of self-sacrifice and crucifixion was worth while, and was destined by its influence upon the world to result in the establishment of the Kingdom of Heaven on earth. It was the theme of his passionate devotion and the object of all His efforts. The parable of the leaven, of the seed growing secretly, of the mustard seed, all indicate His faith in the deathless character of His message and mission; not only of the deathless character, but of the certainty of its growth and increasing influence in human affairs. I BELIEVE IN THE LORD JESUS CHRIST, That makes me a Christian. I DO NOT BELIEVE that He was a failure and I do believe that He is, as the risen and living Christ, the most powerful factor in human life on this 13th day of May, 1923.

It may be true that half the people of this old world never heard His name, that only a small proportion of those who have, follow Him, and only a small proportion of those who profess Him are trying in any adequate way to carry out His program. Yet, it is true that there are more Christians in this world today than ever before in its history, and more intelligent Christians getting His life and teachings and trying to act them out in human relations. More than that, they are more active, earnest and aggressive in preaching His gospel and in seeking to inject His mighty influence into every corner of the earth and into every sphere of man's activity.

Education, politics, economics, industry, amusements, home life, international affairs, are all affected in one of two ways, either they are more definitely controlled by Christian ideals than ever before, or else, lacking such control, the Christian conscience of the world recognizes that lack, realizes its peril and is addressing itself to supply the lack.

Editorials, utterances of leaders in thought and industry, books that deal with world problems, addresses and lectures on the present crisis in morals, and a hundred other types of approach to the question of "what's the matter with the world," agree in an amazing manner that the teachings of Jesus of Nazareth have in them the world's only hope. Christians KNOW that it is He who will save the world from its sins.

Now, I do not wish to evade the facts that we've a long way to go before the millenium shall have come. We know the agencies that try to thwart the work of the Church; that there are conditions which breed antagonisms; that about one in five of its members is functioning as a real Christian; that extreme luxury and prosperity, and extreme poverty, each has no use for the church; that social estrangements and tremendous adjustments of commercial and industrial life make a complex of situations that seems unsurmountable; that the modern rush of 20th century life has caused men to forget God; that some men in the pulpits are preaching uncertainties and doubts; that the swing to modernisms has its great dangers.

We know these things. Outsiders do not have to tell us of our shortcomings. No one knows them better than those working within.

While realizing these things and then while familiar to some extent with conditions of other centuries, I still am convinced beyond the shadow of a doubt that despite all the criticisms of enemies and the qualms of followers, that the church is doing its task in a better way than it ever did it before, and in whatever respect it is failing to measure up to its task it is more conscious of that failure and more earnestly seeking to remedy that defect than ever before.

I will make no attempt to prove any of these statements. Those who believe the opposite could probably bring vast volumes of evidence to prove their contentions. I think those who share my convictions could do as well, and a great deal better.

The Bible continues to be the best seller in the world. You cannot tell me that that isn't the most heartening fact in life. Civilization and Christianity depend on an Open Book. Never was the Word of God in such demand as today. One company, on huge rotary presses, is printing Bibles at the rate of 10,000 an hour. One order for 3,000,000 copies was recently placed. No book is being printed in so many languages—770. It has appeared in a new language during the past decade every six weeks. It is estimated that over 550,000,000 copies were distributed last year. Half of the output of the American Bible Society last year went to China.

More than $67,000,000 will be spent this year in new church buildings, parsonages, community houses, Sunday school plants, etc.

Fifteen church buildings are erected every day in the year in this country alone. The country is being dotted with churches from shore to shore, and people are meeting in them to worship God, and to work for the coming of His Kingdom. A faith that thus builds and works for the future is not a fading faith.

The church is considered a factor in civic life and is being appealed to and reckoned with concerning every good movement.

It is speaking more and more as one voice upon the mighty matters of morals and life and government. The spirit of unity, which of necessity must precede platforms and methods of union, is growing apace. The brotherhood of the ministers of this very community is a point in proof. No finer spirit could prevail amongst brethren in the same communion. That gives power in any community.

If the Church as an institution is losing ground, as some people seem to believe, the outward signs of it are not apparent. If increased membership, which is a matter of statistics that cannot be denied, and the increased expenditures for material and practical building for religious education mean also an increased and intelligent spiritual growth, it looks as if the Church of America was at least in existence and had a reasonable hope of continuance. The hardest thing in the world to kill is the Church. It abides through the ages. The Master's word about it was, "The gates of Hell shall not prevail against it."

I think, if by their fruits ye shall know them, that the Church of today can stand the test of spiritual life and virility. When in its history since the apostolic days has so much of its young life been laid on the altar of service? With millions more at its disposal in money than ever before in modern history, it cannot finance the great hosts of young people ready to go to every land under the sun to evangelize and to lay down life for His cause.

Oh, "Christ loved the Church and gave Himself for it, that He might sanctify it, having cleansed it by the washing of water with the word, that He might present the Church to himself a glorious Church, not having spot or wrinkle or any such thing." Is it to fail, then? As well say that He is to fail, who will some day put all things under His feet.

Brethren, we are a part of the noblest institution on the earth, even though it has its defects and habilaments of the world to contend with. It's in a great fight, still, and perhaps its greatest battles are ahead, BUT VICTORY PERCHES ON ITS BANNERS.

There are storms. But they have not blown out the lights in the harbor. The Christian anchor holds. As, back yonder in the darkest hours of the early Church, when behemoths of power and monsters of iniquity harrowed the Christians with bitterest persecution and death, one of the exiled prophets from his island prison saw above clouds and the darkness, a throne and One seated upon it; so, today, God has not abdicated; Jesus has not forsaken His bride, His people.

We don't need the prophet of dismay and defeat in the pulpit today. Neither do we want those who cannot see the storm. What we do want is a ministry and a people who have faith in the ultimate triumph of Jesus Christ and His Kingdom. We need men like Garfield, who on the day the news of Lincoln's assassination reached New York withstood the crowd and with a flag in his hand cried out, "Fellow citizens! Clouds and darkness are round about Him. His pavilion is dark waters and thick clouds of the skies! Justice and judgment are the establishment of His throne! Mercy and truth shall go before His face! Fellow citizens! God reigns and the government at Washington still lives!"

Friends, God lives. Christ reigns. The Church is alive. There cometh a day when the nations of this world shall become the kingdoms of our Lord and His Christ, and He shall reign forever and ever! "All hail the power of Jesus' name!"

Sensible wives devote their spare time to mending their husbands' garments rather than to nagging at them to mend their ways.

EDUCATION PLUS THE BIBLE, TOPIC OF REV. C. S. PROUT

That an individual cannot become more highly educated than to have an understanding of the Scriptures, was affirmed by Rev. C. S. Prout in a Sunday evening discourse at the Adventist Tabernacle at Eagle Rock. But we cannot get this education, he said, as we get education in other lines by textbook study, lectures, etc. We cannot depend upon our intellects, or our reading of the bible, or study of the Sabbath-school lessons, for a knowledge of the scriptures. God must open our understanding, he said. The spirit of God knows the things of God, and we must be enlightened by the Spirit. It is a remarkable fact, stated in the last chapter of Luke, that the twelve apostles, after they had been with Christ for years and had listened to His words and had seen His miracles, were still blind to a knowledge of the truths of revelation. They had not comprehended the plainest prophecies concerning the mission of the Messiah. But when Christ met with them after His resurrection, it is stated in v. 45, "then opened He their understanding, that they might understand the Scriptures." We are all in need of the same work that was done for them.

We may be surrounded by wonderful exhibitions of divine providence, and striking fulfillments of inspired prophecy, and not perceive any of it. There is a class of people in the world who hear the truth, but of whom it is written, "Hearing ye shall hear, and shall not understand; and seeing ye shall see and shall not perceive." Acts 28:26. We are all in danger of getting into this class, because of the darkening effect of sin upon the mind and heart. We must realize that we depend upon God and not on our own powers for a comprehension of divine truth.

Save the Redwoods, Legislation Under Consideration Now

BERKELEY, Calif., May 11.—A method of preserving California's redwoods and other timber lands through private donation, aided by the state's exercise of the right of eminent domain when necessary, is provided by assembly bill No. 106, introduced in the California state legislature by Assemblyman Albert Rosenshine of San Francisco, which has just passed the assembly. The bill has the support of the Save the Redwoods league, and other conservation societies of California, but also of the lumber interests of the state.

Under the provisions of this bill a state-wide survey of all timber lands available for park purposes will be made by the state forestry board. The survey will be carried out in sections, and as completed, the reports will be filed with the secretary of state. After the completion of any given section of the survey, it will be possible for a private individual to donate a sum of money to the state, indicating at the same time a tract of redwood or other timber which he desires to donate to the state of California for park purposes. The state board of forestry will then endeavor to acquire this land by purchase, and if unable to do so will have the right to acquire it by eminent domain. The bill has been framed, however, in such a way as to be fair to the owner of timber thus acquired in that it provides adequate compensation for damage done by taking this timber, provides rights of way across it from adjoining holdings, and calls upon the state forestry board in making its survey, or acquiring lands to "give due consideration to the maintenance of the integrity of logging units."

The bill does not supersede existing laws regarding the right of eminent domain, or the state's right to acquire timber by gift, purchase or condemnation, but simply adds an additional means whereby the state can acquire such lands.

J. D. Grant of San Francisco, chairman of the board of directors of the Save the Redwoods league, is heading a committee from that organization, which is actively urging the proposed legislation. "The passage of this act would be an aid to the saving of the redwoods," said Mr. Grant, "in that it would make it easy for private individuals to donate redwood groves to the state. The state forestry board is in a better position to negotiate with owners, especially when it is backed up with the right of eminent domain, which this bill gives it. The policy of the Save the Redwoods league has been to cooperate with the lumber interests, and we have endeavored in every way to be fair to them. We shall continue this policy. It is not our desire to invoke condemnation proceedings, except in extreme cases where the public interest cannot otherwise be served. Up to the present time the state forestry board and the Save the Redwoods league, acquiring over half a million dollars worth of Redwood timber, have not found it necessary to invoke the right of eminent domain."

The officers of the Save the Redwoods league, which is urging the Rosenshine bill, are as follows: John C. Merriam, of Washington, D. C., president; Joseph D. Grant, of San Francisco, vice president; Robert G. Sproul, of Berkeley, treasurer; Newton B. Drury, of San Francisco, secretary.

The council of the league consists of the following: Edward E. Ayer, William Frederic Bade, David Prescott Barrows, Albert E. Boynton, E. C. Bradley, William E. Colby, A. E. Connick, George M. Cornway, Wigginton E. Creed, William H. Crocker, Joseph D. Grant, Madison Grant, Henry S. Graves, William B. Greely, Benjamin Ide Wheeler, Ray Lyman Wilbur, Willis L. Jepson, William Kent, Mrs. Frank G. Law, George Horace Lorimer, Duncan MacDuffie, Stephen Tyng Mather, Ralph P. Merritt, John C. Merriam, Walter Mulford, Henry Fairfield Osborn, John C. Phillips, Mrs. Aaron Schloss, J. C. Sperry, Charles F. Stern, Mrs. Charles H. Toll, Charles B. Wing.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF BURBANK

HOLD SERVICES FOR OLD TIME RESIDENT

Masons Conduct Rites at Grave for Pioneer A. S. D. Fulton

Funeral services for A. S. D. Fulton, Monday afternoon, marked the passing of one of the best known citizens in Burbank. Long before the famous old Santa Rosa hotel, on South Olive, was built; long before the horse car was established on Olive avenue; long before many of the store or home buildings were put up in Burbank, A. S. D. Fulton was one of the men about town. He served on the election board every year since he lived here.

Mr. Fulton was born in Nova Scotia, May 19, 1852. He came to California 35 years ago and has lived in Burbank most of that time. He passed away Saturday. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Fulton has been suffering from tubercular trouble for years, and is critically ill at this time.

Funeral services were held at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon at the Presbyterian church, the pastor, Rev. Thomas Stevens, officiating. The Masons conducted the obsequies at the grave.

Mr. Fulton was the senior deacon in the church and had filled about every office in every department. The pastor, in his tribute to the beloved member of the church, said the services were more of a coronation than a funeral.

"Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord" (Rev. 14:13) was the scriptural text chosen by the wife, and formed the topic for the pastor's brief talk.

Six elders of the church, H. T. Comber, J. T. Comber, Duncan Forsyth, F. E. Garette, W. E. Smith and Dr. David Thompson, were the pall bearers. The church was banked with beautiful floral gifts from the many friends of the family.

JANE BEGINS HER VACATION

"Where is Jane?"

That is the question that Mr Dort, head of the Public Service department, was answering several times Wednesday. For Miss Jane McLaughlin is out of the department for a two weeks' vacation. Miss Dana of Glendale is taking her place in the office during her absence.

NEIGHBORS, TRAPS AND DOGS CAUSE TROUBLE

'Judge, you needn't have sent for me, I would have come. I've been sheriff in Missouri for eight years and I fought in the Civil war," protested John Keen, 84 years old in July, in a quavering voice.

The old gentleman had been haled into court on the charge of cruelty to animals. "An Airedale pup, caught in a steel trap, out in Sherlock canyon has been howling for two hours" was the report made to Judge Crawford Monday. The trap belonging to John Keen, was set on his chicken ranch to catch the animals which had been robbing him. He had caught four wolves, and seven coyotes this year. He had also caught some dogs, which he set free.

The report, he claimed, was made through spite work on the part of neighbors. "Judge, I'm going to move out of the neighborhood the 15th of this month. You couldn't give me land up there."

The judge who considered both sides of the case, advised him not to set any more steel traps, and fined him $25. But the fine is suspended as long as there are no more dogs caught, and the old man promised not to set another up there.

AUTO TRIES TO CLIMB A TREE

"Under the spreading chestnut tree," it seems, is the description of the place where men sit with their jugs of wine and watch the beaded bubbles out near the foothills. This was learned at the police court Monday afternoon when R. J. Lefever was before Judge A. A. Crawford and pleaded guilty to the charge of driving an auto while intoxicated.

Out in a deserted place where one lone live oak tree stands in the center of a sandy wash, two men in a Hudson car drove up to sit underneath its boughs, but through an error in the eyesight and guiding hand, the Hudson did not stop under the boughs, but tried to climb the tree. The mighty old oak withstood the attack better than the Hudson.

Lefever, who lives at 607 Pine street, promised (as they all do who stand before Judge Crawford) "it shall never happen again."

The judge fined him $75.

SENCE TAKES OUT PERMIT FOR $65,000

Building permits in Burbank for the first half of the month of May totaled $167,025. This is especially noteworthy when the fact of the increased cost of every detail of construction is considered. Permits issued by the building inspector, Elmer Dale, for Monday alone totaled $84,600. They were issued to Lillian Verbys, 807 Flower street, $3500; Lillian Verbys, 106 Ash street, $100; W. H. Potter, 344 San Jose street, $1750; Paul Brown, Verdugo avenue, $2500; W. S. Walker, Orange Grove ave., $8000; Everett Isler, South Tujunga avenue, $1000; J. H. Lemon, 735 Orange Grove, $350; Wm. Adler, 641 N. Magnolia, $2500; A. and R. Sence, 2-story building, West San Fernando, $65,000; total, $84,600.

Mrs. V. Carlson, wife of Mr. V. Carlson, proprietor of the Burbank Milling company, located near the Glendale city limits is at the College hospital in Burbank, where an operation was performed by Dr. Pomeroy of Burbank. Mrs. Carlson has been suffering from stomach trouble for some time and it became necessary for the operation. She is doing very well and it is hoped that she will soon be able to return to her home.

Perhaps Lot's wife turned around to see how some other woman's dress hung in the back.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK—

E. R. WAITE, Secretary, Shawnee Okla. Board of Commerce.

THAT "SAFETY FIRST" is a good slogan.

THAT it is better to be safe than sorry.

THAT a little carelessness often causes an accident that a lifetime cannot repair. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

THAT people are killed at railroad crossings every day because they took a chance and forgot safety first.

THAT a majority of people killed at railroad crossing are occupants of automobiles.

THAT a railroad crossing is a place of danger where no chances should be taken.

THAT when you are approaching a railroad crossing you should slow down or make a ful stop.

THAT under no circumstances should you proceed until you have made sure that no train is approaching from either direction.

THAT if a train is approaching, wait until it passes by, do not attempt to cross ahead of it.

THAT you should not try to beat a train to a crossing, you can't always do it.

THAT if you are in a hurry, cut out the hurry and play "Safety First."

THAT you should not try to blow a train off the track with your horn, it can't be done!

RESOLUTION NO. 1936

A RESOLUTION OF THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE CHANGING AND RE-ESTABLISHING THE GRADE ON A PORTION OF LINDEN AVENUE WITHIN THE CITY OF GLENDALE.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE:

SECTION 1: That the grade of Linden Avenue from a line fourteen and ninety-eight hundredths (14.98) feet northeasterly from the most northeasterly line of Fourth Street to a line fifteen (15) feet southwesterly from the southwesterly line of Glenwood Road in the City of Glendale be and the same is hereby changed and re-established so as to conform to the following elevations:

Along the northwesterly grade line of Linden Avenue the grade shall be as follows:

At a point fourteen and ninety-eight hundredths (14.98) feet northeasterly from the southeasterly extension of the most northeasterly line of Fourth Street 566.60

At a point six hundred twenty-five and two hundredths (625.02) feet northeasterly from last mentioned point.. 584.00

At a point fifteen and one hundredth (15.01) feet southwesterly from the southeasterly extension of the southwesterly line of Glenwood Road..... 595.60

Along the southeasterly grade line of Linden Avenue the grade shall be as follows:

At a point fifteen and two hundredths (15.02) feet northeasterly from the northwesterly extension of the most northeasterly line of Fourth Street. 566.00

At a point six hundred twenty-four and ninety-eight hundredths (624.98) feet northeasterly from last mentioned point 583.40

At a point fifteen (15) feet southwesterly from the northwesterly extension of the southwesterly line of Glenwood Road 595.00

The northwesterly grade line above mentioned is fifteen (15) feet northwesterly from and parallel to the center line of said Linden Avenue, and the southeasterly grade line above mentioned is fifteen (15) feet southeasterly of and parallel to said center line.

That between the above designated points of elevation the grade shall conform to a uniform grade joining said points.

Except where curbs are built on a curve at street or alley intersections or terminations, the respective curbs along said Linden Avenue shall be constructed along or parallel to the said grade line on the same side of the street, and the top of said curbs shall conform to said grades.

The grades given in this resolution are in feet above the City Datum Plane heretofore established.

Reference is hereby made to Resolution No. 1864, passed by the Council of the City of Glendale on the 22nd day of March, 1923, entitled, "A Resolution of the Council of the City of Glendale declaring its intention to change and re-establish the grade on a portion of Linden Avenue, within the City of Glendale."

SECTION 2: That the aforesaid change of grade is made under the provisions of the Act of Legislature of the State of California, designated and known as the "Change of Grade Act of 1909," approved April 21, 1909.

SECTION 3: The City Clerk shall certify to the passage of this resolution and shall cause the same to be published by two insertions in the Glendale Daily Press, the official newspaper of said City of Glendale.

Adopted and approved this 10th day of May, 1923.

GOES TO ATTEND FUNERAL RITES FOR SISTER

Mrs. W. L. Andrews Leaves for Chicago for Services

Mrs. W. L. Andrews, Providencia avenue, probation officer of the juvenile court, will leave today for Chicago, to attend the funeral services for Mrs. Margaret Joy, her sister. Just a year and five days ago, Mrs. Andrews was called to Chicago by the death of her brother, Lewis Powell, a noted musician.

Mrs. Andrews has requested the Daily Press to print the following letter:

"To the ladies of the two bridge clubs in Glendale. Dear ladies—I could not call you up to say goodby, the time-worn story, four times in four years has the same message come to me, two brothers and two sisters, each one as dear as the other have passed on to the great beyond.

"So you can readily see my heart is sore—so sore—and tonight on the eve of my departure I can see the gate at the station with someone there, and in memory can see those who have met me there so often, but who will not be there this time. I am thankful for the belief that some day at some gate I will not wait in vain. Lovingly, Evaline."

Mrs. Andrews has no details of the death of her sister, but thinks it must have been an accident because she knew of no illness. Mrs. Joy died last Friday and will be buried this coming Friday upon the arrival of her sister. Two other sisters are living in Chicago.

On the same train with Mrs. Andrews will be Mrs. W. R. Scott and Dr. and Mrs. Atwater who are also going back to Illinois because of death in the family. They are taking the body of the mother, Mrs. Atwater, to Cambridge, Illinois for burial. Mrs. Atwater died in Burbank three weeks ago today.

Truths in Epigram

It is indeed a desirable thing to be well descended, but the glory belongs to our ancestors. — Plutarch.

Anger is momentary madness, so control your passion or it will control you.—Horace.

Why should we shrink from what we cannot shun?—Byron.

Experience finds few of the scenes that lively hope designs.—Crabbe.

TRAGEDY OF REVENGE

There was a shot that set the world at war. Humanity will hope that the later shot at Lausanne is not to have similar effect. A sane man would have recognized the possibility, and withheld his hand from vengeance. The individual nursing a sense of great wrong, real or not, becomes the incarnation of selfishness. For the gratification of personal ends, he is willing to imperil the safety of a continent.

No justification will be made of the killing of the bolshevist envoy. He was in an environment that gave him the right to protection. In a broad sense, the fact that he represented an evil and malevolant force could not be considered. His presence may have been obnoxious to many, the unfitness of himself and his kind to participate in the councils of honest nations, recognized. These circumstances could not be cited as warrant for his murder.

Russian bolshevists assume the privilege of seeking to embroil in bloody revolution, the civilization in which Russia has ceased to be a factor, and yet desires to be the directing force. At home its instruments are assassination, robbery and every device of torture. The world, observing, does not esteem the bolshevist regime, its methods or effect. It resents with bitterness the attempt of the debased rulership to extend its jurisdiction into lands still devoted to promotion of social order, still touched by the influence of religion, and neglecting neither the industries nor the arts.

That Russian officialdom could perpetrate outrage after outrage, and not incite reprisal, hardly was to have been expected. Nevertheless this personal outbreak was most unfortunate. When a Russian sees his estates confiscated, the work of years or even of generations destroyed, his people cruelly slain by violence or deliberately imposed starvation, barely escaping with his own life, it is perfectly natural that towards the oligarchy causing his misfortunes he should entertain a seething hatred. Russia in this instance but reaped of its own sowing. For long has it been scattering its poison seeds down the winds.

DOCTORS AND PROHIBITION

Somebody has said of the decision that a doctor may not be restricted as to the amount of whisky prescribed, that it was the severest blow yet received by prohibition. On the other hand it is just as logical, and is much more fair, to assume that the action of the court is not a blow at prohibition. Conceding that the members of the medical profession are honorable men, and from this there will be small tendency to dissent, the latter view is the correct one. Doctors are anxious to obey the law. Some of them, weak in faith as to liquor's being a curative agency, decline to prescribe it. They have not even taken the trouble to get the required permit. Those who have obtained the permit refrain from abusing it. This is a matter of conscience as well as of professional pride. Any doctor knows that were he to become looked upon primarily as a dispenser of whisky, his reputation as a practitioner would be gone, his social standing would vanish, and he would find himself without patients. As a substitute, he would have a following of folk prone to dipsomania, and he would be classed on the plane of the bootlegger.

The plain truth is that if a competent doctor deems whisky necessary to successful treatment of a case, that it would be proper to limit him, is highly debatable. If the doctor does not know the proper limit, he has gone into the wrong calling. The small fraction of the medical fraternity who would deliberately prosper by catering to the appetite for liquor, could not long maintain standing with the far greater majority. Even if a doctor were inclined to take advantage of the chance to garner profit by dealing in whisky, he probably would be too discreet to sacrifice a fine career by choosing the role of bartender.

NEGLIGENCE AND ACCIDENT

A writer commenting on the number of deaths in this region by automobile, terms the disasters "accidents." That is, he implies by the quotation marks, that they are not accidents at all. Doubtless he is mostly right. The logical eventuation of circumstances themselves under control, hardly are to be regarded as accidental. They are the effects of a definite and recognizable cause. The absence of the effects, the cause being manifest, might be regarded either as an accident or a miracle.

The usual automobile smashup is the result of carelessness. Thus it is not to be regarded as unexpected, and in the true sense, an accident must have the element of unexpectedness. If a reckless or incompetent driver goes out on the crowded highway, declines to obey the rules, speeds too fast, gives wrong signals, passes other machines on the forbidden side, he is bent towards catastrophe. When he arrives, if he gives sign of surprise, and affirms that his predicament is due to accident, then he is showing himself stupid. If he didn't expect the things that happened, then what did he expect? Surely not that he was to escape unscathed.

Near Colton an unlicensed driver ran her machine into another, killing the occupant of the latter. There should be no unlicensed drivers. There should be no licensed drivers who are unable to control their machines in any emergency. Many a greenhorn has received a license along with his new automobile, when he did not know enough about the machine to make it honk.

It really does not make much difference to what cause road fatalities are ascribed. If to accidents, then these are avoidable accidents, and being avoidable, not accidents. Rather they represent negligence, which is passive design.

AN ADMIRABLE COMPETITION

The oratorical contest that reached its climax at the Los Angeles high school last week, was the splendid result of a fine inspiration. Originally the competition was among the pupils of fourteen counties of southern California. The contestants then were numbered by thousands. Through preliminary trials, elimination had left six speakers. By honorable achievements they had won their way into the finals. There was a prize of $1500 for the winner; $500 for the second. In addition there were thirty-six district prizes of $50 each. Aside from the honor, the prizes were of inciting value. Aside from the possibility of a prize, the honor of competing, the benefit of the study made necessary, the broadening of the knowledge of each participant, made a total of genuine worth.

The addresses dealt with the constitution. The speakers treated with singular maturity of thought, many phases of the great document. Thus thousands of youths were caused to familiarize themselves with the basic principles of this government. They learned of the individuals who had founded it. They got into touch with the spirit of the early days. They learned that the patriotism of revolutionary times was fundamental, and that the purposes embodied in the constitution were high, formulated with regard for the sacredness of human right.

This was a training for the best citizenship. It tended to fortify the pupils against the sinister efforts to belittle American hopes and accomplishments.

Reaching Close to Absolute Zero

The nearest approach to the absolute zero temperature which has yet been attained has been recently achieved by Prof. H. Kamerlingh Onnes of the University of Leyden, Holland, according to advices received by the Bureau of Standards in Washington. The record temperature of 272.18 below zero Centigrade, or as the physicists express it, .82 degrees Absolute, was reached by the Dutch scientist in an unsuccessful attempt to solidify liquid helium. The temperature is equal to approximately 458 degrees below zero Fahrenheit.

At this temperature the liquid helium showed absolutely no tendency to solidify, according to the report of Dr. Onnes, who expresses the opinion that helium may remain a liquid even at the absolute zero.

This temperature, 273 degrees below zero Centigrade, denotes the entire absence of heat, or expressed in more scientific language, the entire absence of atomic or molecular motion. Heat is due to the vibrations of the atoms. The less heat, the less vibration until, as has been found through mathematical study of the problem, the temperature of —273 Centigrade means the cessation of atomic motion and the entire absence of heat.

Physicists have been trying to attain to this temperature for years because of the bearing that a study of the properties of matters under those conditions would have on the problem of the ultimate constitution of matter. For example, it has been indicated that at the absolute zero the electrical resistance of many if not all metals is approximately zero, or in other words, that although the atoms are entirely at rest, the electrons of which they are composed are free to move without the slightest interference.

According to modern theories an electrical current is a sort of procession of electrons, or particles of negative electricity; and it is supposed that at the absolute zero the atoms settle to rest in some form which leaves absolutely free paths through which the electrons may travel without any interference or "resistance."

Every gas has been both liquified and solidified except helium which has never been reduced to the solid state in spite of years of effort. In Dr. Kamerlingh Onnes' most recent attempt he evaporated the liquid helium in the most perfect vacuum attainable, the pressure at the surface of the liquid being only thirteen thousandths of a millimeter of mercury or about one sixty-five-thousandth of an atmosphere. A battery of twelve glass and six iron Langmuir vacuum pumps, connected in parallel, was used to obtain this result.

The previous attempts to solidify helium having produced a temperature of 1.15 degrees Absolute, Dr. Kamerlingh Onnes undertook his latest attempt with the utmost refinement of technic. Although he was unsuccessful in getting any solid helium, he did succeed in getting the lowest temperature ever produced by man. It seems impossible, he states, to get temperatures lower by more than a few hundredths of a degree under those he has now obtained, but he adds, "We cannot accept such a limit otherwise than as a provisional one." The pursuit of the absolute zero will continue.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

"Number" Can Be Either Singular or Plural

(Find the error in this article.)

About a year ago, "The Right Word" became involved in a long but interesting discussion on the correctness of sometimes following a singular, collective noun, such as group, crowd, jury, and number, with a plural verb.

The discussion lasted several weeks and ended when "The Right Word" showed conclusively that a plural verb is often joined to a singular collective noun, when the idea intended to be expressed by that noun and its accompanying verb is plural; as, The jury were discussing the evidence.

A. B. P. now quotes "The Right Word" and comments as follows:

"'Wrong: A large number of words was broadcasted.

"'Right: A large number of words were broadcasted.'

"Number is singular, therefore number was. (You say, 'A large number.' A is singular.)??"

"The Right Word" appreciates being challenged by any one who wishes to force an issue, or who seems to be in doubt, for by further discussion, well established principles are made clear and learned. The interrogation points at the end of the foregoing communication are evidence of the unsettled mind of A. B. P.

Recognizing that this problem will be more nearly solved for A. B. P. if several authorities are quoted, the following excerpts have been selected for the purpose:

"A collective noun, when singular in form, may take a verb in the plural if the speaker is thinking of separate things; as, A herd of cattle were grazing in the field." Maxwell's School Grammar.

"A number in the sense of 'several' or 'many' regularly takes the plural; the number takes the singular; as, A number of sailors were loitering on the pier; The number of tickets is limited." Advanced English Grammar, Kittredge and Farley.

"The Right Word" did not use the word broadcasted.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

JAMES W. FOLEY

Cynics and railers and critics and pessimists and other wasps of the human race like to prate of the wickedness of the world.

When as a matter of fact the world is a very good place.

With a great majority of good people in it.

Not saints or angels but good, wholesome, helpful human beings.

* * *

The wonder is not that there is evil in the world of its millions and hundreds of millions.

The wonder is that there is not more of it.

Taking all the facts of living and being into consideration, the wonder is that people are as tractable, as wholesome and as useful and patient as they are.

* * *

For man is human and subject to many temptations.

And they are not temptations of his own creation.

They are temptations arising from desires and passions that are ingrained.

* * *

We will take the schoolboy for instance.

With his inherited instinct for the open, for the woods and fields, the brook and the swimming hole.

These are not perversions of desire.

They are not evidences of degenerate rebellion against discipline.

* * *

They are merely evidences of inherited instinct.

When the distant ancestor of the boy roamed the fields and woods at his own sweet will.

Diving sometimes perhaps into old swimming holes.

Sharpening a bone and attaching it to a fishline of grass fibre and bringing a shining fish out of a pool.

* * *

Yet with all this inherited instinct we find boys and girls at school with reasonable willingness, putting aside the temptation to play hookey.

Digging into books instead of into loamy turf.

Reading printed words instead of the leaves and grasses.

Angling for answers to problems instead of for fish.

* * *

The wonder is not that a boy or girl occasionally gets out of bounds.

The wonder is that many of them do not.

Or that most of them do not.

For those things that are innate and instinctive with us are those against which the fight is hardest.

* * *

And there is man with his desires.

His passions.

His ambitions.

His loves and griefs and joys and sorrows.

His yearnings.

His love of ease and luxury.

His inherited rebellion against the discipline that does the day's work.

* * *

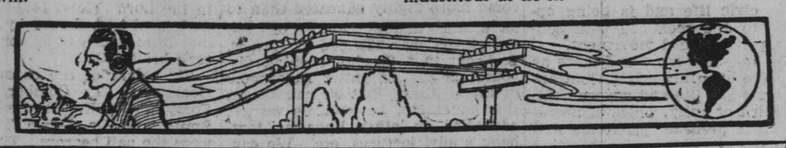
The wonder is not that he rebels sometimes.

The wonder is not that he sins against society.

The wonder is not that he staggers and stumbles and falls.

The wonder is not that he offends.

The wonder is that he is as well governed, as patient, as long suffering, as kind and as industrious as he is.



Songs of the Poets

"When the Grass Shall Cover Me"—By Ina Coolbrith

When the grass shall cover me,
Head to foot where I am lying;
When not any wind that blows,
Summer blooms nor winter snows,
Shall awake me to your sighing:
Close above me as you pass,
You will say "How kind she was,"
You will say "How true she was,"
When the grass grows over me.

When the grass shall cover me,
Holden close to earth's warm bosom—
While I laugh or weep or sing,
Nevermore, for anything,
You will find in blade and blossom,
Sweet, small voices, odorous,
Tender pleaders in my cause,
That shall speak me as I was—
When the grass grows over me.

When the grass shall cover me!
Ah belov-ed, in my sorrow
Very patient, I can wait,
Knowing that, or soon or late,
There will dawn a clearer morrow:
When your heart will moan "Alas!
Now I know how true she was;
Now I know how dear she was"—
When the grass grows over me!

AMERICA IN THE AIR

By DR. FRANK CRANE

PRESIDENT HOWARD E. COFFIN of the National Aeronautical association on a recent visit to Europe expressed some interesting opinions about the relative position of America compared to other nations in air transportation.

He seems to think that the European nations have gone ahead faster than we.

On the steamer in the Mediterranean he was surprised as the vessel approached the Straits of Gibraltar to hear the hum of a motor and then discover a big airplane speeding down the coast toward Morocco. This was an airplane of the regular line that starts at Nice, touches at Toulon, Cartagena, Barcelona, Malaga, and Rabat, with Casablanca (Morocco) as its terminal. This air line is doing a large transport business.

And when later he saw these planes of the Nice-Algiers line, which fly to Corsica and then to Barcelona in Spain before making for the African coast, he declared that the American eagle was not screaming aboard the ship, as he and his fellow countrymen watched these foreign eagles of the air on their every-day jobs.

He further tells of smart Italian seaplanes that are pioneering the route from Milan to Rome, touching the island of Sicily and then making across the sea to Tripoli.

On a 1200-mile journey he saw more flying than he had seen in a lifetime home.

"We have got to have organized lines in the air to beat this game over here," he declared.

"We will have a determined airman to start things at home. We will have this little American group signed up with us to get behind and push in our membership campaign in May."

The airplane originated in America, and American inventors and business men are noted for being wide awake and in the forefront of progress. There is no reason why this country should not be supreme in the air.

Navigation by air will, before long, be a significant factor in business, for there are certain goods for which rapid transportation is of extreme importance.

The traveler and sightseer will also realize that the voyage in the air is as much superior to a voyage in a steamship as the steamship excels the rowboat. We do not as yet realize the speed and safety that aircraft can give.

It is safe to say that in twenty-five years from now, in the fields of commerce and travel, as in the field of sport, the air vessel will be a permanent factor.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

THE KLAN CRACKS

[Louisville Courier-Journal]

While rivals for control of Ku Klux Klan funds are fighting out their quarrels in Georgia courts, branches of the order in Louisiana are quietly breaking up and disbanding.

At two towns in the Pelican State Klansmen, Protestant ministers and Knights of Columbus directed by Catholic priests have met around counsel tables, exchanging views and publishing statements touching the process of the klan's dissolution.

Briefly, these statements consist of declarations by klansmen that they joined the order for patriotic purposes and without prejudice against either Catholics or Jews, and of assurances by Catholics and Protestants alike that these avowals should be accepted in good faith by the community. The pronouncements close with an appeal for all good citizens to forget the past and unite on the old ground of a common citizenship free of religious or racial intolerance.

Signs like these indicate that the end of the Ku Klux Klan is not far off.

From the outset the Courier-Journal has not doubted that the organization would wear itself out against the ingrained conservatism of American character. The order's misguided members are recognizing that this order has no rightful place in American life. The wonder is that it ever gained a foothold in the conservative south, where inter-relations of Jews, Catholic and Protestant have been exemplary for more than a century.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

From time to time there arise conditions that seem to justify a strike, and when such a strike has been declared, it is pretty sure of the sympathy and support of the public. Usually a strike is many degrees below zero in usefulness.

HENRY JAMES

Take a case where there is a large body of men, at a waterfront, say. There is plenty of work for each one, loading and unloading ships, and the wages they get make those of the white collar brigade look like a waiter's meagre tip.

Hovering about the edges of the scene is an organization heralding belief in "direct action." Its business is to stir up trouble, for capital, for labor; ultimately for the government. The fact that work is abundant and wages liberal are evidences of prosperity, and to these evil agencies, prosperity is a crime. Therefore it must be abolished. So the roughnecks, proponents of sabotage, syndicalism, the bomb—direct action—tell the wage earners to stop earning wages. Some heed the advice, because they never liked work very well anyhow. Others do so, for fear that if they don't, they will have their heads mashed and their homes burned.

When matters are about at this stage, the police try a little direct action themselves. Of course, this is held to be an outrage. The whoopers-up for direct action have in mind only such action as hurts others. It is no part of their notion that direct action should be employed against them. Hence if a policeman collars one, who resists and gets an official wallop, and a haven in the calaboose, the direct actionist never is aware that he has merely been given a dose of his own medicine.

Occasionally the world receives the assurance that everybody is going crazy. It is not in the least disturbed.

Perhaps this is because it already has gone so far in the indicated direction that it doesn't realize what ails it.

The American Aeronautical association wires that it will recognize the flight made by Lieutenants Kelly and MacReady from New York to San Diego, as a new world record.

While this is a perfectly proper attitude millions of people beat the A. A. A. to it.

There is a baseball row in progress in the Pacific Coast league, and it is to be regretted, of course. However, some good may come of it yet.

One of the points at issue is the presidency of the league. A plan is mentioned for creating a greater vacancy than at present exists in the presidential chair, and putting Harry Williams in the place.

Williams is a newspaper man, always fair and invariably interesting. As a baseball scribe he doesn't have to take off his hat to any in his class. He knows all about the game. He has the respect of players, managers and public. That's a fine equipment.

* * *

Here's another question of legal ethics:

A Los Angeles lawyer is charged with trying to dispose of goods stolen by his client. In fact, the accusation is that he sought to return them to the owner, for a price. There is a name for such conduct. Also it is frowned upon by bar associations as well as the courts.

Suppose the client had been a murderer instead of thief, a lawyer could have been found, knowing him guilty, to attempt to prove his innocence. Thereafter, or thereinbefore, the pay of the lawyer would have come from any loot possessed by the criminal even though it were the spoils of the crime. There would have been no fuss about the transaction, save as made by some obstreperous scribbler, and nobody would have minded him.

Norman Hapgood is writing letters from Moscow. Too bad. He may succeed in fooling some people who don't think.

Hapgood, formerly a journalist of standing, has become one of the unreliabilities of the newspaper world, a blind, but unhappily, not a dumb instructor of the parlor pinks.

* * *

The effort to be a true and loving wife seems sometimes to lead to mental confusion. There's the case of a man in the county jail, pining for his regular shot of morphine. His wife, on the outside, understood his yearnings apparently. Anyhow, she arrived at the jail with a bindle of the stuff. Now she's on the inside herself, and her good man is without his dosage, and with sorry prospects of relief.

Perhaps she would have benefited him more had she encouraged the authorities to keep the husband where there would be a wall between him and dope.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Sometimes I think they taught me the wrong sort of politeness when I was a kid. It was an assenting sort of courtesy, if you get what I mean. The theory was that the way to be polite was to be a sort of an echo on the other fellow. If he said he liked a book you said you liked the book. If he wearied for a nice dish of stewed snails you likewise wearied, although wild horses could not pull you into a combination with a snail. That isn't being polite. It is just copy-catting.

"Don't try to fool people," is Uncle Joe Cannon's theory of life. "Play your own hand."

He told a story of his first term in congress, when he still had his way to make. His most important farmer constituent visited Washington and Joe asked him to dinner. Out of compliment to his guest Cannon ordered a real down on the farm dinner. It was green corn season, and he had corn soup and roasting ears and corn fritters and sweet corn pie.

"Give me lobster Newburg," said the farmer, "and a guinea hen and a peach Melba."

Cannon had to go through with his program of green corn while his guest delighted in imported luxuries. At the close of the dinner the guest said:

"Joe, you are spending too much money on your food. You are a young man and you should economize."

The future Uncle Joe protested that his tastes were very simple.

"That's what I mean," said the constituent. "Here you are, paying out good money to live in a hotel. S' far's I can see, you'd do just as well in a livery stable."

DO YOU OWN YOUR OWN HOME?

Unless you do, you are not getting all the comfort out of life that you should. Nor are you acting in a wise or kindly way toward your wife and children. Possibly you took your wife from a real home owned by her parents. It was hers while she remained in it. Have you provided her with a home of her own—with you?

Or have you dragged her around from one place to another, at the whim of a landlord or the thought that you might make a few dollars a month more in some other locality?

ISN'T IT ABOUT TIME THAT YOU SHOULD BEGIN to plan for a home of your own? And if so, are you doing it? Thousands of other wise families have built or are building beautiful, comfortable, modern houses, worthy of housing real happiness when occupied by their owners—such as you and your family, for instance. BUYING BASEBALL PLAYERS ALL A GAMBLE

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, May 15.—(United Press). —When George W. Grant owned the Boston Braves he used to like to philosophize on the gambles that baseball presents for a magnate. Not being financially fixed as well as some of the more wealthy clubs, Grant used to do most of his gambling on gathering in young unknowns from the rookie world.

"It's all in luck," Grant said one day last winter. "Pat Moran got a whole team of fine young rookies who made regulars for him in one big sweep of the minors. Maybe he'll never find another one. They all come in bunches and some day I'll get mine."

He didn't stay in baseball long enough to see his hopes fulfilled at least partially. He sold the club during the winter and the expected strike of the Braves in the rookie market followed his retirement.

The Braves are disporting as classy a bunch of young players this season as are to be found in numbers on any major league club. In Outfielders Bagwell and Felix, Second Baseman Conlon and Pitcher Genewich the Braves have a bunch of jewels.

Conlon, especially, seems to be a prize find. The former captain and star of the Harvard varsity nine was secured for a small bonus and he looks like the best fielding second baseman that has come into the majors since Eddie Collins made his debut.

The Harvard star stepped right off the campus at Cambridge into a big league uniform, and while he may have much to learn, he has the mental qualifications to absorb his lessons quickly and he has natural baseball ability.

Bagwell looks like another sure star.

The most striking commentary that can be made on Jim Genewich is that he cost the Braves ten cents, representing his carfare to and from the club offices, and he won his first two games in the big-time—both against the Giants.

Jack Bentley cost the Giants $65,000 and he is no youngster. Genewich, as has been said, cost a thin dime and he is only nineteen. Bentley lost his first two games and Genewich won his first two.

Maybe that doesn't mean anything, but any rookie pitcher who has the nerve to go in and pitch against the world's champions with the abandon and carelessness that Genewich used against the Giants has something and a lot of something.

In the hands of Fred Mitchell, one of the best pitching coaches among the major league managers, and with Dick Rudolph to wise him up, young Genewich might develop into the pitching sensation of the year

LITTLE THINGS

We mustn't mind the little things
That in all lives must be;
We mustn't mind the frets and stings
That come to you and me.
God knows there is enough to do
That high, stern duty brings,
Enough that's worthy me and you,
Let's not mind little things.

The shabby little fears that shake
Their skinny hands and cry;
The little hurts and hates that take
The blue from out the sky.
The petty jealousies and deeds
That cheerless brooding brings,
Let's learn it as the first of creeds
To banish little things.

There is so much that's all worth while,
So much of good to do;
Let's brighten living with a smile,
And fight the battle through
Like men and women, and let's bear
The petty hurts and stings
Without the whimper of despair,
Let's not mind little things.

God, teach us hotly to despise
The petty thoughts and deeds,
Give us to see with clearer eyes
This troubled old world's needs
Help us to rise and live above
Life's little snarls and stings,
Help us to live, to help, to love,
And not mind little things.

INDUSTRIAL BANKING

What is the difference between commercial banking and industrial banking?

When a person needs credit accommodation and seeks it at a commercial bank he finds that ability to repay the loan in one to four months, collateral or other assets, and a former satisfactory connection with the institution from which he is about to borrow, are prime requisites. If the loan is made he pays, generally, 6 per cent discount. He often keeps in the bank a balance of about 20 per cent of what he borrows.

But approximately 85 per cent of the average community are unable, because of the requirements, to obtain loans at commercial banks, as a rule.

For this portion of the population, there are in many cities industrial banking institutions, some called banks, some called loan companies. Credit is offered under different requirements by these institutions. The one outstanding feature is that an average of from ten to twelve months is given to pay off the loan, in either weekly or monthly instalments.

The character of the borrower plays an important part in the credit decision. This, together with two indorsements given by individuals who may be in the same walk of life as the borrower, has proved industrial banking a safe and profitable method of finance.

Some institutions accept two indorsers and charge a 6 per cent discount and a 2 percent flat investigation fee; others charge anywhere from 1 per cent to 3½ per cent per month on unpaid balances and accept chattel as security.

Long ago the Russell Sage Foundation made a study of industrial banking and showed that such an institution had to charge a higher rate of interest than a commercial bank to stay in business. Small loans over extended periods are costly.

WATERFALL TO SUPPLY POWER

[By Associated Press]

SACRAMENTO, May 15.—The 6,000-foot fall of the Yuba river system between Haypress valley on the south fork of the North Yuba at an elevation of 6,870 feet and a point at 275 feet elevation below the proposed narrows dam near Smartsville, on the Yuba river will be utilized in the proposed power development outlined by the Yuba Development Company, and made public by H. A. Kluegel, chief of the division of water rights of the state department of public works.

The development of 262,130 horsepower as projected in the development scheme approved by the water rights division, contemplates the use of nine large reservoirs with a combined storage capacity of approximately 500,000 acre feet, and diversion tunnels totalling more than twelve miles.

The working out of the reservoir and power units is such that practically no fall of the river will be allowed to go to waste. Soon after the water is discharged from the tail race of one power house, it will be stored again and diverted for another power house. Coupled with the proposed power development are plans for extensive irrigation projects in the Sacramento Valley to be supplied from the stored waters of the river and resumption of hydraulic mining.

The Excelsior Water and Power company, the Metals Exploration Company, with headquarters in New York City; Harry Payne Whitney, New York financier, and Bulkeley Wells, Nevada and Colorado mine operator, are among those interested in the Yuba Development Company.

DRIVES GOLD SPIKE

SALT LAKE CITY.—Governor Charles R. Mabey of Utah drove a gold railroad spike at Fillmore recently, thus completing officially the Delta-Fillmore branch of the Union Pacific system. The new line taps a rich farming community.
